THE ANCESTRY OF BETHIA HARRIS

HARRIS

This account of the Harris family of Ipswich does not pretend to be an exhaustive genealogy even of the generations with which it deals. The effort to prove the direct paternal ancestry of Bethia Harris became so involved in a maze of John Harrises, four or five of whom lived in the town simultaneously during the greater part of the eighteenth century, that a vast amount of material was accumulated dealing with other branches of the family, and it seems unkind not to include this and the conclusions drawn from it for the benefit of other perplexed genealogists. After many doubts had arisen, the descent of Bethia Harris from Thomas Harris, the first of the name to settle in Ipswich, was brought to the point of genealogical proof by the evidences of the descent of the Sergt. John Harris homestead and the "clay-pit" meadow, both of which were property of the original settler, and the first of which is still in the possession of a direct descendant in the person of Mrs. James Damon.

Harris is one of the commonest of English surnames and initially it seemed very improbable that the English home of the family would ever be disclosed. Iles, however, is an equally uncommon surname, and it was through the relationship of the Harris emigrant to Richard Iles, who died in Charlestown in 1639, that we acquire two earlier generations of English Harrises. In treating of Richard Iles in his "Genealogical Dictionary of New England" Judge Savage stated "at the other end of the same volume (referring to the first volume in the Suffolk Probate Registry) will be found the official papers of the parties at Bristol claiming as heirs." An exhaustive search of the early volumes of the registry drew a blank, and it was concluded that the papers had been placed loosely in the volume and had been lost or destroyed some time after Judge Savage had seen them there. A year after this search a chance glance at the first volume of Suffolk deeds disclosed the desired power-of-attorney from the Iles heirs and produced the information that, beside a brother in Bristol, Richard Iles had a brother in "Katherope in the Countye of Clone" and a sister in "ffairefield" in the same non-existent county. It took a surprisingly short time, with the aid of a topographical dictionary, to translate these hideously mis-transcribed localities into Hatherup and Fairford, two neighboring parishes in the county of Gloucester, and the printed index of wills at Gloucester, containing references to several wills of Harrises of Hatherup brought the search to a satisfactory conclusion.

Hatherup is situated on a hill rising from the valley of the river Coln in one of the most picturesque districts of Gloucestershire. The village itself is a mere appendage to the manor house, now called Hatherup Castle and the home of Sir Thomas Bazeley. The village church, in which the early Harrises worshipped, was so pulled about in a drastic "restoration" in Victorian days, that nothing of its original character remains.

JOHN HARRIS, yeoman, of Hatherup, co. Gloucester, was born at least as early as 1513. He married Anne or Annis , perhaps about the year 1533. His will, dated October 22, 1553, and proved June 4, 1554, left the lease of the house in which he dwelt to his daughter Alice Wynchcumbe, and, if she should die before it expired, the remainder of the term was to belong to her daughter. His two sons, William and John Harris, received seventy-two acres of land occupied by William Carney, a sheep pasture and also ten sheep and a bullock apiece. The residuary legatee and executrix was his wife Anne Harris, and John Sermon, John Fathers and John Chapleyn were named overseers. The witnesses were John George, William Manne and John Sermon.*

The will of Annis Harris, widow, of Hatherup, was made June 17, 1585, and proved February 5, 1585/6. She gave to her daughter Alice Winchkome a new gown, three sheets etc., and made small personal gifts to Anne, James, John and Thomas Winchkome, William Harris the younger, Anthony Harris and John Harris the younger, Joan Reve, Alice Kirbie, George and Marie Vincen and Elizabeth Robins. The residuary legatee and executor was Richard Harris.+

Children:-

- i. ALICE; m. Winchcombe before 1553, living in 1585; doubtless mother of Anne, James, John and Thomas Winchcombe, mentioned in her mother's will.
- 2. ii. WILLIAM.
  - iii. John; Richard Harris, executor of the will of John Harris's mother was probably John's son.

2. WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> HARRIS (John<sup>1</sup>), of Hatherup, married November 21, 1568, in Cheltenham, co. Gloucester, Katherine Kiche. She died before 1579, when on January 30 he married Agnes Mason, daughter of Henry Mason of Cheltenham, who left legacies to her and her husband's daughter Anne Harris in his will in 1584.

His will, dated October 1, 1598, was proved November 8, 1599, by his widow and executrix, Agnes Harris. After directing that he be buried in the church or churchyard of Hatherup, he left £5 apiece to his sons William (eldest), Anthony and John, £12 to his son-in-law John Iles and a cow to Joan Iles, daughter of his son-in-law, to be given her when she became seven years old. He then devised the residue of his property to "Annis Harris my late Wife but if it please God to change the mind of Annis Harris my late Wife and Join herself in marriage and so alter the name, then my 4 youngest Sons: Thomas Harris, Edmund, William and Robert Harris shall have one half of my Goods." Henry Mason of Cheltenham and John Iles of Hatherup were named overseers.*

Children, by first wife:—

i. A DAUGHTER (Anne?, legatee of her step-mother's father in 1584); m. John Iles before 1598; Iles was listed as living in Hatherup in the military roll of Gloucestershire in 1608.

Children: —

- 1. Joan Iles; legatee in the will of her grandfather Harris in 1598.
- 2. Henry Iles; a husbandman, of Hatherup, in 1640, when he gave power of attorney to Henry Hazard of Bristol to collect the legacy left him by his brother Richard Iles of Charlestown.
- 3. John Iles; a carpenter, of Bristol, in 1640, when he joined his brothers and sister in the power of attorney to Henry Hazard.
- 4. William Iles; a blacksmith, probably of Bristol, in 1640, when he joined in the above mentioned power of attorney.
- 5. Margaret Iles; m. Thomas Hinton of Fairford, co. Gloucester; both joined in the above-mentioned power of attorney; his nuncupative will, declared Aug. 17, 1647, left his house to his wife Margaret for life, and named his sons John and Thomas and his daughters Ann and Katherine.

- 6. Richard Iles; cooper and carpenter; emigrated to America and settled in Charlestown, Mass., before 1639, when on Oct. 29 he made his will, the first recorded in Suffolk County, in which he directs that 45s. be sent to England to his brother John Iles and John Keene, gives his coverlet to his aunt "for her pains and her love," 20s. apiece to his cousins Thomas, William, Anthony, John and Daniel Harris and Anne Maverick, 5s. apiece to "my two little cosins John and Abigaile Maverick," and the residue of his estate to his three brothers and one sister; on Jan. 25, 1640, (Henry) Iles of Hatherup, co. Gloucester, (John) Iles of the city of Bristol, house carpenter, William Iles of the (same) city, Thomas Hinton of Fairford, co. Gloucester, yeoman, and Margaret, his wife, and John Keene of the city of Bristol gave a power of attorney to Henry Hazard of Bristol, mariner, to recover of William Stilson of Mass. Bay such sums as Richard Iles devised or bequeathed to them by his last will.*
- ii. William; legatee in the wills of his grandmother in 1585 and of his father in 1598.

iii. Anthony; legatee in the wills of his grandmother in 1585 and of his father in 1598.

iv. John; legatee in the wills of his grandmother in 1585 and of his father in 1598; probably the John Harris, husbandman, of Hatherup, whose will, made Dec. 24, 1622, and probated June 17, 1623, left legacies to the church, the poor and the bellringers of Hatherup, Robert Weaving, the parson of the parish, and Thomas Fowler, shepherd.

By second wife: —

3. v. Thomas.

vi. EDMUND; living in 1599. vii. WILLIAM; living in 1599.

viii. Robert; living in 1599.

3. Thomas<sup>3</sup> Williams alias Harris (William<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>1</sup>), his wife Elizabeth, five sons and one daughter came to America in the great emigration under the leadership of John Winthrop in 1630. It is a logical conclusion that they were passengers on the ship "Lyon" which sailed from Bristol, bringing emigrants from that city and the western counties of England, and which made port at Salem in the latter part of May, some two weeks before the arrival of the governor in the "Arbella." His name (Thomas Williams) first appears in the Colonial records on September 18, 1630, in the list of a jury of inquest on the body of William Bateman, who died from illness and exposure at Pullen Point in Boston Harbor, after a voyage from Plymouth. On October 19, 1630, as Thomas Williams alias Harris, he applied to the court to be made a freeman of the colony, was admitted, as Thomas

Williams, on May 18, 1631, and took the required oath. On that same day the court recorded that "Tho: Williams hath undertaken to sett upp a fferry betwixte Winnettsemt & Charlton, for which hee is to have after 3d a person, & from Winnettsemt to Boston 4d a person." Winnisimmet was the later town of Chelsea, and it was there that the family lived.

Thomas Williams alias Harris died before September, 1634, when William Stilson, who married his widow Elizabeth, took over the ferry. Many years later, on June 15, 1680, Stilson, aged about eighty years, testified that "Thomas Harris lived at Winnisimet, about fforty nine years since & was wont to transport persons over the Rivers, to Charlstowne & Boston till he died, and after that I married his Widdow, and kept the ffery, as my predecessors did."*

On October 29, 1639, his nephew, Richard Iles, cooper and carpenter, died in Charlestown, and his will supplied the clue by which the English home of this family was discovered.

Why Thomas Harris used the double surname Williams alias Harris has not been ascertained. It is possible that, after the death of his father, his mother married a Williams and her sons were commonly called by the name of their step-father. It may also be that he was apprenticed as a small boy to a Williams and went by his master's name, that relationship often being much stronger than a purely business one. The commonest reasons for an alias, illegitimacy in the lower classes and marriage with an heiress in the upper, do not apply in our case. There is also the possibility that for some personal reason affecting his proposed emigration it was advisable to assume a new name.

Elizabeth (-----) (Williams alias Harris) Stilson died in Charlestown February 16, 1670(1) aged ninety-three, which places the date of her birth in 1577 or 1578. Stilson survived her (he was twenty years her junior) and married Mary, widow of Major Francis Norton, in the following August. He died April 11, 1691, in his ninety-first year, having been a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, a representative to the General Court from 1667 to 1671, and deacon of the Charlestown church from 1659 until his death. The first bequest in his will, which is dated April 12, 1688, is as follows: "I give and bequeath unto John Harris, Thomas Harris, William Harris, Daniel Harris and Anna Maverick, Relict widow of Elias Maverick, Deceased, the children of my first wife, to each of them five shillings, to be paid them Six months after my Decease."+

It seems evident that the emigrant's family had permanently adopted their rightful surname Harris rather than Williams or the combination of the two.

4. John<sup>4</sup> Harris (Thomas<sup>3</sup>), brought to New England by his parents as a young man, after some years in the family of his step-father Deacon Stilson at Charlestown, settled in the new village of Rowley, with his brothers Thomas, William and Daniel. He had a house-lot of two acres on Holmes Street, between the lots of Thomas and William, in 1643, and on May 26, 1647, he was made a freeman in Rowley.

He married, about the year 1644, Bridget ———, possibly a daughter of Edmund and Bridget (Rogers) Angier of Wiston, co. Suffolk, and a niece of Rev. Nathaniel Rogers of Ipswich, who in 1655 left legacies of twenty shillings apiece "To the children of my Cousin John Harris of Rowley, viz., Elizabeth, Nathaniel, John, Mary." Mrs. Bridget Harris was buried at Rowley August 4, 1672. On October 24, 1677, Harris married Elizabeth (Rowlandson) Wells, daughter of Thomas Rowlandson of Ipswich and widow of Richard Wells of Salisbury, who was buried in Rowley December 29, 1679, her husband, after some hesitation, consenting to the probate of her will on June 28, 1680. His third wife, Alice, probably that daughter of James Mattock of Boston who had buried three previous husbands, Nathaniel Bishop, John Lewis and Abraham Howe, also survived him.

gogn Harris

Harris was one of the original members of the Rowley church in 1665, a selectman in 1677 and a member of the grand jury in the same year.

He died February 15, 1694/5, "aged." His son Timothy was named executor of his will, which was dated January 8, 1691/2, and proved March 27, 1695, in which he mentions his wife Alice and their marriage contract, his sons Nathaniel, Timothy and John (who was already in possession of land at Haverhill bought of Thomas Aires), his daughter Mary Allen and his grandchildren John and Eleazer Harris, sons of his son Nathaniel. Administration cum testamento annexo was granted to his son John on March 29, 1695, the eldest son, Nathaniel, having renounced his right on the previous day.

Children, born in Rowley: -

i. ELIZABETH; m. Capt. Moses Bradstreet, son of Humphrey Bradstreet of Ipswich, March 11, 1661/2; d. about 1682; he m. as his second wife widow Sarah (Platts) Prime, and d. Aug. 17, 1690; 10 children.

6. ii. NATHANIEL.

Mary, b. before 1655; m. July 5, 1674, Ensign William Allen of Salisbury, son of William and Ann (Goodale) Allen, who d. May 10, 1700; she d. Jan. 23, 1720/1; 9 children, the second son being named Stilson, for his mother's step-grandfather.  $\mathbf{v}_{\cdot}$

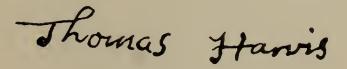

SARAH; probably b. after 1655 as she was not mentioned in Rev. Mr. Rogers' will; m. Jan. 6, 1673/4 Beriah Browne, son of Charles and Mary (Acie) Brown of Rowley; d. soon after, leavvi. ing a daughter Sarah, who was provided for in a deed given by her grandfather Harris to her uncle Timothy Harris in 1682.*

8. vii. Timothy, b. November 1, 1657.

Thomas<sup>4</sup> Harris (Thomas<sup>3</sup>) was born in England about the year 1618, his age being stated as about forty in 1658.† He was, therefore, a boy of twelve when he crossed the Atlantic. He left his mother's home in Charlestown before 1642, when, in September, he was a member of the Ipswich company of militia which set out on the expedition to disarm Passaconoway, the Sagamore of Merrimac, for which he was paid three shillings on Dec. 4, 1643.

Like his three brothers he owned a house-lot on Holmes Street in Rowley in 1643, but it is doubtful if he ever occupied it and in 1644 he sold it to Richard Holmes and Richard Bailey, confirming the sale in 1654 by a deed in which he calls himself a seaman. I

On November 15, 1647, at Ipswich, Thomas Harris married Martha Lake, daughter of John Lake of North Benfleet, co. Essex, England, and Margaret (Reade) Lake of New London and Ipswich, and by this marriage he gained a powerful connection with the Winthrop and Symonds families. In 1648 he purchased from William Symonds a house and lot in Ipswich which became his homestead, the lot being adjacent to one which he had previously purchased from John Warner.§

He was a subscriber to Major Denison's salary in 1648, signed the loyalist petition to King Charles II in 1666, was elected tythingman in 1667 and was on the list of commoners in 1678.

In 1653 he was charged, under the sumptuary laws, with allowing his wife to wear silk, but was discharged "on proof of his wife's education and bringing up."* In 1665, when Samuel Symonds deposed that his cousin Harris was still going to sea, he bought the clay-pit meadow, across the road and opposite his house, from John Baker.† He and his wife were executors of the estate of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lake, in 1672.

Thomas Harris died August 2, 1687, in Ipswich. His will, dated July 12, and proved September 14, 1687, made his wife Martha his sole executrix. To her he left his dwelling-house, barn, orchard and garden, three marsh lots at Plum Island, two-thirds of a planting lot at Middle Island, part of a planting lot on the south side of the highway and all of a planting lot on the north side of the highway in the town (Ipswich), one-half of the clay-pit meadow, two-thirds of the marsh lot "at the hundreds," his share in his boat, four cows, four oxen and all the sheep and swine. He also gave her a life interest in all of the household furniture and farm implements. To his son John he gave "the new house which I built in Ipswich," two marsh lots at Plum Island, the remainder of the planting lot in town, onethird of the planting lot at Middle Island, one-half of the claypit meadow, one-third of the marsh "at the hundreds" and two oxen. John was also to have one-third of the house lot and orchard after the death of his mother. To his sons William and Ebenezer he left his dwelling-house, barn and shop and the other lands not already given to John, after their mother's death. The brothers were directed to offer such property as they wished to sell to each other before disposing of it outside of the family. The will was witnessed by Daniel Epps, Sr., and James Chute, Sr.

Mrs. Harris, on January 1, 1696, pointing out to the court that the will did not mention two of the Harris children, Elizabeth Gallop and Margaret Staniford, "which so fell out by the fault of him that wrote the same," requested authority to settle the personal property on these two daughters.

Madam Rebecca Symonds, widow of Mrs. Harris's uncle by marriage, Deputy-Gov. Samuel Symonds, in her will made in 1695, left to "my cousin Martha Harris a good scarf of equal value with my best scarf."

The date of Martha Harris's death is not known.

6. NATHANIEL<sup>5</sup> HARRIS (John<sup>4</sup>, Thomas<sup>3</sup>) was born about the year 1647, presumably in Rowley. He married Elizabeth Hazen, daughter of Edward Hazen, April 5, 1670, in Rowley. She was admitted to the town church February 28, 1685.

In 1695 he renounced the right to administer the estate of his father, which was his as eldest son, and it was probably he, and not his son of the same name, who purchased twenty acres in York, Maine, in 1701 from Samuel Webber, and three lots aggregating one hundred and sixty-seven acres in the same town, on one of which stood the stone house wherein had dwelt Edward Rishworth, from Elisha Hutchinson of Boston in 1701 and 1703.* In these deeds he is "of Rowley," but in June, 1703, he was "of York, formerly of Rowley" when he deeded Rowley property to John Todd. † One quarter of the Hutchinson grant was sold to Peter Nowell in 1704 and the remainder, with the Webber grant, was apparently mortgaged to Hutchinson in 1705.1

Harris was still in York in 1706, when he brought an action against Anne Emerson, § but in 1714, in a deed to his "son-inlaw John Prichard of Boston," he calls himself "of Pembroke, late of Rowley." || Two other deeds, acknowledged in 1715 in Boston, seem to have disposed of all of his York holdings to Prichard.

In his old age he returned to Rowley where he died April 24, 1732, "aged, after long confinement."

Children, born in Rowley:—

- NATHANIEL, b. Jan. 6, 1670/1; as his two younger brothers were mentioned in their grandfather's will in 1691/2 and he was not, it is a reasonable conjecture that he died in childhood. i.

7. John<sup>5</sup> Harris (John<sup>4</sup>, Thomas<sup>3</sup>) was born in Rowley October 8, 1649. He married Esther, probably daughter of Richard and Susanna Stackhouse of Beverly, about the year 1672. He established himself in Ipswich as a gunsmith and locksmith, and accumulated a considerable property. He and his wife were admitted to full communion in the Ipswich church in 1674, and he took the freeman's oath in 1685. For many years he was under-sheriff of Essex County, and from 1696 his name appears on the records with the title of marshal.

The Haverhill land which he obtained from his father was disposed of in 1685.

Harris died in 1714, and his grave-stone bears the following inscription: "Here Lyeth ye Body of Mr. John Harris under Sheriff who died Sept ye 15 1714 in ye 64 year of his age."

John Harry

The will of John Harris, Senior, of Ipswich was made July 16, 1714, and proved the following November 13. He left his house and homestead, one-half of the furniture and implements and an annual allowance of £5 to his wife Esther during her widowhood. To his son Thomas he devised all of his land in Gloucester except the lot at Pigeon Cove and the lot bought from Tarr. To his sons John and Samuel were left the rest of his land in Ipswich, Gloucester, Coxhall and elsewhere, except the Pigeon Cove lot, to be equally divided between them, and they were also to have the homestead after the death of their mother, to whom they were to pay £4 annually. His son John was to have his cane, gold ring and shoe buckles, and his wearing apparel and armory were to be divided among his three sons. The lot at Pigeon Cove he devised to three grandsons, sons of his son John, their father to hold it during their minority. Of his daughters, Abigail Burnham was bequeathed £10 and one-half of the furniture, Esther Chapman £10, Mary Harris £40 and Margaret Harris £40. His wife and sons John and Samuel were named executors.*

A paper headed "Quittance to Marshall John Harris, Ipswich" was filed in the probate court in 1719 by which Job Burnham who married Abigail Harris, Samuel Chapman who married Esther Harris, Anthony Smith who married Margaret Harris, and Chapman, as attorney for Grindall Knight who married Mary Harris, all daughters of Mr. John Harris of

Ipswich, receipted to their brothers John and Samuel for their share in their father's estate.*

The death of the widow Esther Harris is not recorded.

Timothy<sup>5</sup> Harris (John<sup>4</sup>, Thomas<sup>3</sup>) was born November 1, 1657, in Rowley. He married Phebe Pearson, daughter of John Pearson, of Rowley, August 24, 1682. They were both members of the town church, she being admitted on April 27, 1690, and he on July 19, 1696, and he served as deacon from 1708 until his death. He was the town's representative in the General Court from 1720 to 1722.

Deacon Harris died March 24, 1723/4. His will, made a year previously, left to his wife one-half of the buildings and land in Ipswich lately purchased from his son-in-law Nathaniel Hammond, the property to go to his son John on her death. The other half of the Ipswich farm and all his Rowley real estate was devised to John, who was also named residuary legatee and executor. To his son Stephen he left his land at Littleton. He also remembered his grand-daughter Phebe Harris and his daughters Sarah, Phebe, Bridget, Dorcas, Elizabeth and Hannah Harris.*

Widow Phebe Harris died October 15 or 16, 1732.

SERGT. JOHN<sup>5</sup> HARRIS (Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Thomas<sup>3</sup>) was born in Ipswich January 7, 1651/2. He married Grace Searle, daughter of William and Grace Searle of Ipswich, January 8, 1685.

He took part in the expedition against Quebec in 1690, which is doubtless the origin of his military title. Returning to Ipswich he settled down to the life of a yeoman.

In 1693 John Harris, husbandman, William Harris, smith, and Ebenezer Harris, husbandman, sold land apparently inherited from their father, and in the acknowledgment clause of the deed John Harris is referred to as "Serit John Harris," which proves his identity.*

John Harris

He died November 21, 1732, leaving a will dated August 23, 1728, which was proved December 18, 1732. To his wife Grace went all of the household goods and the use of the whole estate during her widowhood, with the exception of the parlor-chamber which was to be occupied by his daughter Martha so long as she remained unmarried. On his wife's death the estate was to be divided equally among his children, except that his son John was to have £5 in addition "and allso my Great Bible," probably that which he had in turn inherited from his grandmother Lake. His wife was named executrix, to be succeeded by his son John. The widow Grace Harris died June 10, 1742, in Ipswich.

After their mother's death, her six sons, all men of middle age, deeded their parents' homestead to John Harris, Jr., of Ipswich, the oldest grandson, on December 22, 1742, describing it as the house, barn and homestead of John Harris late of Ipswich, deceased, containing about one acre: that portion on the east side of the road bounded by William Harris and Thomas Hovey;

the other part on the south side of the road bounded by John Dennis and Hezekiah Hodgkins. On the same date his brothers conveyed to William Harris, Jr., three-quarters of two lots at Plum Island, and all six sold five acres on Town hill to Nathaniel Foster.* In these instruments John, Thomas, William and Richard were described as of Ipswich, Samuel of Rowley and Daniel of Preston, Conn.

When his brother Ebenezer went to Connecticut, William Harris bought his share of their father's homestead. His long life is sparsely documented, the most important items being the deeds of himself and his wife Sarah to their son William Harris, fisherman, in 1727 and 1739.* He also granted part of his house and land to his daughter Sarah Hodgkins in 1742.†

He is undoubtedly the William Harris who died December 31, 1751, his age being given as ninety-three, an exaggeration of six years.

few years, he settled in Ipswich about the year 1723.

His first wife was Remember Tuttle, int. January 7, 1721/2, who died April 2, 1735, in her thirty-third year. He married, second, Rachel Goodale of Boston, int. September 13, 1735, whose death is not recorded but probably occurred in 1738. His third wife was Ruth ——, a Boston widow, who survived him and died January 5, 1786, aged about eighty-one.

Job Harris died September 17, 1771. His will, made March 9, and proved October 28, 1771, mentions his wife Ruth, his grand-children Nathaniel and Sarah (children of his deceased son Nathaniel), his grandson John Friend, and his sons Edward, James and John.*

Widow Ruth Harris made her will May 17, 1782, and it was proved February 6, 1786. She left legacies to her daughter (by a former husband) Ruth Jackson of Boston and her granddaughter of the same name, to her two sons James and John Harris, her grandson James Harris, son of James, and her granddaughter Elizabeth Harris, daughter of John. †

John Harris (John, John, Thomas) was born in Ipswich May 27, 1673. He was John Harris "4th" until the death of his father, Marshal John, in 1714, when he became John "3d." He started his business life as a tailor, but became a barber before 1726, and thereafter the name of that trade was used to differentiate him from other John Harrises in the records.

He was married four times; first, to Margaret ——, who died before 1700; second, on November 19, 1700, at Gloucester, to widow Susanna Wardwell, daughter of William Ellery and widow of William Wardwell, who died January 15, 1705, in Gloucester; third, to Anna —, who died in 1719 or 1720; and fourth, to Mary ———, about the year 1720.

As John Harris, tailor (or barber), with wife Mary, and Samuel Harris, joiner, of Marblehead, with wife Elizabeth, he and his brother disposed of various properties inherited from their father to Dr. Thomas Berry and other purchasers from 1719 to 1726.* In 1732 John Harris, barber, son of Marshal John Harris, deceased, and William Harris of Beverly, "son of the first named and only surviving child of the first named by his second wife Susanna Wardwell" sold to James Brown of Ipswich property inherited from the Marshal and from Wardwell. Three years later he conveyed to his son William Harris of Beverly, for love and affection, "the house and land (in Ipswich) which William Wardwell, late of Ipswich, gave his wife Susanna, with whom I was afterward married and by whom William was born unto me." † William reconveyed this property to his father in 1739, and in 1743 John Harris deeded it to his son Abner.

John Harris, barber, died April 21, 1743. His wife Mary is possibly the "widow of John Harris" who died October 22, 1751.

John Harris (Timothy, John, Thomas) was born in Rowley October 11, 1695. He inherited a farm just over the Rowley-Ipswich line from his father in 1723, and was known in the Ipswich records as "Farmer John Harris." He was a member of the Rowley church and all of his associations were with that town. He married Mary Waite June 11, 1728, in Ipswich. She died September 9, 1749, and as his second wife he married Elizabeth Hodgkins of Rowley April 7, 1752.

"Farmer John" died July 18, 1774. His will, dated December 13, 1771, mentions his wife Elizabeth and the property she brought with her at marriage. He left to his son Timothy his house and barn and one-half of the land and mills in Ipswich, the other half to go to his son John, and both sons were to act as executors. He also left legacies to the children of his deceased daughters, Hannah Stacy and Phebe Dole.+

The farm was set off from Ipswich to Rowley in 1785. The widow Elizabeth Harris died in 1794.

John Harris

John Harris died May 28, 1764. His son Giles was appointed administrator of his estate on July 9 and entered an inventory, THOMAS HARRIS (John 5, Thomas 4, Thomas 3) was born in Ipswich about the year 1688. He married Joanna Pulsifer, daughter of Benedictus and Susanna (Waters) Pulsifer, int. Dec. 9, 1710.

He was a fisherman. He sold one-half of a common right, which had belonged to his father-in-law, in 1714.* His old age was spent in Haverhill, from where in 1759 he deeded all of his property to his daughter Rebecca, with a reversion, in case Rebecca died without children, to his daughter Joanna Webber of Ipswich.+

He died in Haverhill February 28, 1763, aged seventy-four. His widow, Joanna Harris, died September 13, 1766, aged seventy-six.

- WILLIAM<sup>6</sup> HARRIS (John<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Thomas<sup>3</sup>) was born in Ipswich November 26, 1690. He married before 1716 Anne -, who died June 15, 1729. His second wife was widow Mary Gott of Wenham, whom he married September 23, 1733.

He was William Harris "Jr." until the death of his uncle William in 1751. He joined his brothers in the heirship deeds of 1742, and with his sister Martha sold land at Plum Island in 1748.§ In 1755 he and his wife Mary mortgaged their Ipswich property to their son-in-law Jonathan Williams of Boston, and in 1766 they joined Williams in deeding it to John Holmes.

He was a cordwainer by trade. There is no record in Ipswich of his death or of that of his wife, and it is possible that their last years were spent in Boston.

Children, baptized in Ipswich: —

ABIEL, bapt. May 17, 1724; was she the Abiah Harris who m. Abraham Wood in Boston April 27, 1744.

Martha, b. Jan. 7, 1727, as daughter of William Harris, Jr., and vi. Margaret, an error of the clerk.

Samuel<sup>6</sup> Harris (John<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>) was born in Ipswich April 9, 1695. He married, int. October 31, 1719, Mercy Brackenbury, a niece of Dr. William Brackenbury of Ipswich, who died November 10, 1732. His second wife was Anne Stanwood, whom he married April 3, 1733, and whose death is not recorded. Thirdly he married Mrs. Mary (Walcott) Brackenbury, widow of Dr. William Brackenbury, int. August 11, 1753.

In the heirship deeds of 1742, disposing of his father's estate, his residence is given as Rowley, but as his children are recorded in the Ipswich books it seems that his association was with his birthplace.

He died in Newbury January 29, 1770, aged nearly seventyfive, probably at the home of his youngest daughter, Mrs. Webber, as he is described in the record as "father-in-law (of) John Webber who was father of Samuel Webber, President of Harvard College," which must, of course, be a later addition as Dr. Samuel Webber did not become president until 1804.

November 7, 1724, as William Harris 3d, his father being William Sr. and his cousin, the son of Sergt. John, being William Jr. He was a fisherman. Richard Pulsifer, weaver, left a small legacy to his daughter Dorothy Harris in his will in 1759.

Harris lived on the East street property, inherited from his father. The last mention found of him is in the deed which he and his wife executed in 1757, granting this property to their son Richard.

2. David; m. Sarah Emmons Oct. 6, 1791; mariner, taken prisoner during the War of 1812 and confined in Dartmoor prison; his uncle Richard deeded to him land at the back of the William Harris homestead in 1801, part of which he sold in 1811 to Ebenezer Sutton; he d. May 5, 1863, aged 90.

19. Abner Harris (John John John John Thomas) was baptized in Ipswich March 29, 1719. He married, int. May 12, 1744, Deborah Felch, daughter of Dr. Daniel and Sarah (Fuller) Felch, who died June 22, 1750. His second wife, int. April 20, 1751, was Mary Sawyer, doubtless from Wells, where she owned property.

Harris was a prosperous ship-wright with yards on the Ips-wich river, built on land bought from Daniel Appleton in 1757 and from Richard Sutton in 1758. The lane leading to the yards was for many years known as Ship Yard Lane. He had bought land from Joseph Smith in 1743 and built the house later known as the Sutton house and still standing.**

He died April 28 (or 30), 1777. His will, proved March 4, 1777, left his estate to his wife Mary, his sons Joseph, Abner and John, his daughters Deborah Safford, Molly and Eunice Harris, and his grandchild Mary Harris, daughter of his son

JOHN HARRIS (John John Thomas Thomas) was born in Ipswich September 28, 1718. He married, int. December 14, 1745, Bethia Jones, daughter of Nathaniel and Rachel (Bradford) Jones of Ipswich.

It was to him that his father and his five Harris uncles deeded the homestead of his grandfather, Sergt. John Harris, on December 22, 1742. In this deed he is described as fisherman.

John Harris's death is not recorded at Ipswich, but it probably occurred soon after the birth of his last child in 1755, and certainly before the death of his father in 1764, as, had he been alive at that time, he as eldest son would have assumed administration (or waived it), rather than his brother Giles, who was at an added disadvantage in living out of Ipswich. It is, of course, quite possible that his ship was lost at sea with its entire crew, and this conjecture is made more plausible from the fact that his estate was not brought into court until after the death of his widow, Bethia Harris, on March 12, 1771. He was called "mariner" and his son John Harris ("3d") was appointed administrator and presented an inventory amounting to £104, November 26, 1771, in which the Harris homestead is described as "The Dwelling House with the Land adjoining & the Land below the way," obviously the same property covered by the 1742 deed.*

pamphlet.

ELIZABETH, bapt. Oct. 7, 1750, and described as daughter of "John Harris mard Jones"; she was of Boston July 10, 1788, when her int. to marry Thomas Torrance of Plymouth was published. Torrance was a tobacconist and owner of a snuff mill, purchased from Solomon Ingles in 1790.† He d. May 5, 1818, aged 64. His widow d. Jan. 21, 1831, aged 79.

He was a fisherman in 1793 when his aunt Agnes Harris conveyed to him the half of the Giles Cowes homestead which she had inherited through her mother,* and which he or his heirs eventually sold to Samuel Sawyer, the deed not being of record. †

John Harris died March 8, 1812, aged sixty-six. His widow survived until May 24, 1831, at the age of eighty-two. Requested by her children, the court appointed Charles Kimball to administer her estate March 27, 1832. Her property was sold, her daughter Susanna buying her share of a house and Joseph Wait buying what appears to be her share of the "clay-pits meadow." The administrator made a payment to the administrator of Nathaniel Harris, Jr. 1

Of the children listed below, Elizabeth, Susanna and Abraham are definitely identified, and Nathaniel practically so; the others are highly probable. In 1790 the family consisted of one male over 16, three males under 16 and five females.

HARRIS, OF IPSWICH, FROM THE ISLES OF SHOALS

HARRIS OF IPSWICH, FROM THE ISLES OF SHOALS

Genealogists dealing with the Harris family of Ipswich have failed to realize that there were two distinct stocks of that name settled in the town in the seventeenth century. The numerically lesser family had its origin in the Isles of Shoals.

JOHN HARRIS of the Isles of Shoals, fisherman, and Mary Sparks of Ipswich, spinster, were the principals in a marriage bond, in the sum of £200, issued June 24, 1687, their surety being Jabesh Negus of Boston, carpenter.* The bride was a daughter of John Sparks of Ipswich and Boston. The groom was possibly a son of that William Harris who bought a dwelling on the island of Smuttynose from William Sealey in 1666,† and of Rebecca Harris who acted as attorney for William Harris in an action of debt against John Stover in the York court in 1687. A John Harris witnessed a Smuttynose deed in 1685.1

John and Mary Harris settled in Ipswich and built a house on forty rods of land purchased from Zacheus Newmarch on May 26, 1696.§

Mary, wife of John Harris, died May 6, 1730, and John Harris, fisherman, died December 3, 1738.

Children, born in Ipswich:—

- John, b. Nov. 19, 1690; d. Dec. 30, 1736, aged 46; "he had commanded several merchant vessels; been in divers engagements against enemies of the British crown, behaving himself gallantly, and particularly so on the Spanish coast in the West Indies";|| prob. m. Elizabeth ----, who, as widow Elizabeth Harris, m. Capt. Isaac VanBibber, int. Jan. 22, 1738, and to whom Capt. VanBibber left his entire estate by will dated March 21, 1738, entrusting to her the care of his little daughter Veronica, obviously by a former wife. I
- JOANNA, b. Jan. 18, 1691/2; m. Benjamin Bird of Boston, int. Dec. 23, 1710; lived in Dorchester; Bird was deputy to the General Court 1729-33 and 1737; she d. May 7, 1768; 15 children.

THOMAS<sup>2</sup> HARRIS (John) was born in Ipswich October 10, 1696. He married Margaret — before 1717. His second wife was Elizabeth Potter, daughter of John and Sarah Potter of Ipswich, int. December 10, 1720. Her mother made a deed of gift to her and her two sisters, Sarah Fellows and Mary York, June 10, 1724.*

Harris was a prosperous sea captain. His father deeded to him the house and land purchased from Zacheus Newmarch on November 19, 1723, calling him Thomas Harris Jr., Thomas Sr. being the son of Sergt. John and Grace (Searle) Harris, born in 1688. The witnesses to this deed were Mary Harris Sr. (the grantee's mother), Mary Harris Jr. (the grantee's sister) and Margaret Harris (the grantee's six-year-old daughter).+

Thomas Harris died before January 24, 1763, when administration on his estate was granted to his son Moses, the inventory showing a large property, including house, barn, warehouse and wharf, and forty ounces of silver (tankard, porringer, spoons, shoe and knee buckles, etc.).‡ Elizabeth Harris survived her husband, as the administrator's account contains an item "sundries supplied my mother," and was probably the "widow of Thomas Harris" who died December 16, 1763.

§ In some book of reference there is a record of a John Harris of Ipswich, aged 19, who served in the Louisburg expedition in 1744. Unfortunately a wrong citation was attached to this in my original notes and it cannot be found. It is my opinion that this John Harris was the "John son of John Harris" who was drowned in September, 1747, the clerk inadvertently carrying the name of the son over to the father, a not uncommon error.

As administrator of his father's estate, he sold the house and land deeded to his grandfather Harris by Newmarch to Francis Pulsifer, Jr., on March 22, 1773.* He was a ship captain, and during the Revolution commanded a privateer, was captured and imprisoned. ## MASON, OF CHELTENHAM, CO. GLOUCESTER, ENGLAND

MASON

Henry Mason, husbandman, of Cheltenham, co. Gloucester, made his will September 15, 1583. He left his property to his son John (leasehold in two acres in Whaddon Mead), son Henry (leasehold of his dwelling-house), son Walter (leasehold of his shop), daughter Alice (£20), daughter Elizabeth (£30), daughter Jane Gaines, his son Walter's three children, his sonin-law William Gregory's two children, his son-in-law Thomas Apperis' three children, Anne Harris, daughter of his son-in-law William Harris, and his wife Joan who was named residuary legatee and executrix. The will was witnessed by Rafe Gines, parson of Leckhampton, Walter Mason and William Hares. Proved September 4, 1584.*

The widow Joan Mason of Cheltenham made her will November 28, 1601. She left her small property to her grandchildren Henry, Mary and Hester Mason (children of Walter), Jane Mason (daughter of John), Gyles Perry and Edward Gregory, her daughter Jane Jeynes and her son Henry Mason. The will was proved December 10, 1601.+

It was on land belonging to the Mason family that the springs were discovered which were the foundation of the prosperity of present-day Cheltenham.

LAKE, OF NORTH BENFLEET, CO. ESSEX, ENGLAND

LAKE

Lake is a surname which was not uncommon in the county of Essex in the sixteenth century, and its bearers, mostly of the yeoman class, were to be found in many of the central and southwestern parishes. The Lakes of Great Fanton Hall were newcomers in North Benfleet about the year 1570 and whence they came is at present uncertain, but there they remained for three generations, acquiring several other manors, which were in reality not more than extensive farms. Great Fanton Hall, a large farm house of no particular architectural pretension, still stands, half way between the villages of Wickford and North Benfleet, in a flat and, for England, uninteresting country-side.

The Lakes were not of visitation rank and no arms can be claimed for them. The fantastic ancestry concocted by a widely quoted genealogist, which deceived so many of their American descendants, can be easily discredited.*

1. —— Lake, who lived in the first half of the sixteenth century, probably in some parish in the county of Essex, was the father of at least four sons and two daughters. A search of about thirty sixteenth-century wills of men and women named Lake in the various probate registries of Essex has failed to identify him. Possibly at some future time the publication of a parish register will disclose his name and the records of his family.

Children: -

i. John; m. (1) at Runwell, co. Essex, Feb. 3, 1558/9, Elizabeth Lone, probably a widow, who was buried at North Benfleet March 10, 1588/9; m. (2) at North Benfleet April 28, 1589, Mary Castle, who survived him and married, second, at North Benfleet May 26, 1597, John Greene of Rawreth, co. Essex, and was living in 1599 when she was mentioned as "sister Greene" in the will of her brother-in-law, Richard Lake; d. s. p. and was buried at North Benfleet March 12, 1596/7.

After his first marriage John Lake seems to have lived at Runwell where one of his servants was buried in 1563. Between that date and 1578 he moved to North Benfleet where he held the manors of Great Fanton and Boneviles and other property, also lands in the neighboring parishes of Rayleigh, South Benfleet, Wickford, Laindon and South Hanningfield.

The will of John Lake of North Benfleet, dated Dec. 10, 1596, and proved April 7, 1597, directed that he be buried in North Benfleet church or chancel. For making of forms and other things necessary and convenient in and about the chancel of the said church, 20s. To the parson of the said church, for a Communion Book or Psalter, 10s. To trimming and mending the porch buttresses of the said church and chancel, 20s. To each of the eight people who carry my body to the church, 12d. To the poor of Bemflette and of the parishes of Runwell, Wickford, and Rawrethe, co. Essex, to each parish 20s. To the poor of Rayleigh, co. Essex, 40s. To Widow Castle, my mother-in-law, who now dwelleth with me, the bed whereon she usually lieth, furnished with all things belonging thereunto, as it now standeth, and 20s. To my wife Mary Lake all my goods, household stuff, and implements in my house called Fanton Haule, in Bemflette, except the leases of my manors or farms of Fanton Haule aforesaid and Bonefields, alias Boneviles, in Bemflette, my ready money, and all other my writings, bonds, evidences, scripts, and muniments, which are to go to my executor. To my wife all goods and household stuff in my kitchen, bolting house, wool house, granary, or north end of my house of Fanton Haule aforesaid, and in my house in Kemps Croft, also all my butter, cheese, bacon, and other provisions, all my calves, milk of my kine, and all my ewe sheep on my farm at Fanton Haule, and my new house in Kemps Croft, etc., for a month after my decease, whereupon (various articles specified) are to be carried by my executor to Bonevelds alias Bonviels for my said wife. My said wife is to pay my executor £6 yearly for the premises (Bonefelds) and to enter into a bond, and, if she refuses, the legacy to her is to be void and my executor is to pay her 100 marks. To my brother Richard Lake, who dwells with me, pasture of one horse for life, my best black nag, and also his meat, lodging, washing, and entertainment for himself in my house for life. To Nicholas Stelewoman £21 left him by John James, late of Hockley, co. Essex, on the day appointed in the said will. To Dorothy Luther, daughter of Henry Luther, deceased, £20, and my wife is to educate her. To Elizabeth, Frances, and Joan Luther, the other daughters of the said Henry, £20 each, at the age of eighteen or marriage. To every godchild 2s. To Thomasine Drywood, dwelling with John Brooman of South Bemflette, £10, £4 thereof being what I owe her. To my cousins John and George Porter £10 each. To every one of my brothers' and sisters' children, except the said John and George Porter, the children of my brother Robert Lake, Richard, the son of my brother Richard Lake, Joan Ducket, the wife of Robert Ducket, who owes me £20, the which I forgive him, and John Brooman of South Bemflette, to everyone of the other I give £5. To Simon Prisceley, my servant, a bullock and sheep which were Robert Lone's deceased, and £10. To every man and maid servant, except those before and after named, 6s, 8d. To Richard Lake, son of my brother Richard Lake, lands in Wickford and South Hannyngfield which I late bought of Robert Vane of Sinocke, co. Kent. To John Brooman of South Bemflette, my kinsman, my house and lands in South Bemfleete which I bought of Thomas Wyat, late of Thundersleye, co. Essex. To Elizabeth Lone, daughter of Margaret Lone of Rayleigh, widow, the houses, lands, etc., which I purchased of John Camber of Tilburie; but Foulk Evans, tailor, is to have his free use and occupation of all those rooms which he now has for life, without paying any rent for the same, and Elizabeth Lone is to make a lease for twenty-one years to Henry

Julian which I have promised him. To Anne Castle, who dwells with me, £10 at twenty years. To Anthony Lone, who dwells with me, £10 at twenty years, and my executor is to educate him in the meantime. My tenement at Layndon called Nokes, which I late bought of Thomas Anger, and the residue to John Lake of North Bemflette aforesaid, the son of my brother Richard Lake, whom I make sole executor. Overseers: Mr. Edmund Reade of North Bemflette, Mr. Richard Mason, parson of Rawrethe, and Mr. Thomas Jobie, parson of Thundersley, and they are to have 20s each. Witnesses: William Harryes, Isaac Gilbert, Thomas Meredithe.*

2. ii. RICHARD.

iii. Robert; his children were mentioned in the will of his brother John in 1596. He is possibly the Robert Lake who had a daughter Susan baptized Aug. 22 and buried Oct. 8, 1574, at Runwell, co. Essex. There is also the possibility that he was the Robert Lake of the following will.

Robert Lake of Hockley, co. Essex, made his will April 30 and it was proved June 16, 1597. To my son Robert, £10 at twenty-one. To my daughter Elizabeth, £20 at twenty-one. To the poor of Hockley, 40s. To Richard Carre, our minister, 5s. to preach at my burial. To Mary Samon, 10s. Executrix and residuary legatee: my wife Rebecka Lake. Overseer: Edward Samson of Rawreth, to whom 10s. Witnesses: Richard Carre, Edwarde Pullen, Edward Salmon, John Peare.†

iv. William; living Sept. 17, 1599, when his wife was a legatee in the will of his brother Richard.

v. A DAUGHTER; m. — Porter.

Children: —

- 1. John Porter; he and his brother were legatees in the will of their uncle, John Lake, in 1596.
- 2. George Porter.
- vi. A DAUGHTER; m. —— Brooman. In the parish of Navestock, co. Essex, is recorded the marriage on Sept. 24, 1553, of Andrew Bromeman and Helen Lake, but the will of this Andrew does not mention a son John, necessary for perfect identification.

Child:—

- 1. John Brooman; of South Benfleet, co. Essex, in 1596, when he was a legatee in the will of his uncle John Lake.
- vii. A DAUGHTER (perhaps). Richard Lake left in his will a small legacy to his "sister Cracknell" who may have been a sister who m. ———— Cracknell, or a sister-in-law.
- 2. RICHARD LAKE, of North Benfleet, was a widower, living with his brother John, at Great Fanton Hall, in 1596. As the very full parish registers of North Benfleet contain no baptismal records of his children, it is obvious that his married life was passed in some other parish. He was buried at North Benfleet September 24, 1599.

The will of Richard Lake, dated September 17 and proved October 11, 1599, directed that he be buried in the church or churchyard of North Benfleet. To the poor of the parish 5s. To every godchild 12d. To every servant dwelling with my executor 12d. To my brother William's wife 5s. To my sister Greene and my sister Cracknell 12d. each. To the children of George Reignolde which he had by my daughter £10, to be paid to the said George for their use. To my son Richard Lake £20. To my daughter Phennynge and her children £10 equally between them. To my daughter Lachyngdon and her children £10 equally between them. To my son-in-law Thomas Lachyngdon all the debts he owes me. To my daughter Joan Ducket and her children the £21 which her husband Robert Ducket owes me, and to her two children two of my best platters. To my son Richard Lake, to my daughters Margaret Phennynge and Sybille Lachyngdon, and to my executor my chest of linen and certain pewter. To every one of my brothers' and sisters' children, 5s. Residue to my eldest son, John Lake, and he is to be executor. Witnesses: Edmund Portwaye and Thomas Meredithe.*

- JOHN<sup>2</sup> LAKE (Richard<sup>1</sup>) of Great Fanton Hall, North Benfleet, yeoman, was born about 1565. He married Elizabeth Sandell, daughter of John Sandell of Little Barstable Hall, in the neighboring parish of Basildon, co. Essex, about 1589.

In addition to his inherited manors of Great Fanton and Boneviles in North Benfleet, John Lake acquired from his wife's nephew, John Sandell, then living at Kempton, co. Herts., "all that manor of Little Barstable Hall alias Basildon Hall... in Basildon, co. Essex, with all the lands thereunto belonging... and all other its appurtenances in Basildon, Vange and Fobbing, co. Essex, ... also three crofts containing forty acres called Sawyers in Basildon... and two other parcels of land called Hockleys and Undermunds in Vange' for the sum of £1,121.*

John Lake was buried at North Benfleet December 10, 1612. His will, dated November 29, 1612, was proved January 30, 1612/3. The estate of Little Barstable went to his wife for her life, with all of the furnishings at the hall and certain articles from Great Fanton, and after her death to his son John, provision being made to satisfy the dower rights of "my sister Blage," the widow of Lake's brother-in-law Thomas Sandell. Boneviles was devised to his son Richard and Jac-at-Hoods, one of the Sandell properties, to his son Thomas. Great Fanton Hall, the family homestead, went to his son John. His daughters Sybil Benton, Tamsen Lake and Anna Lake were bequeathed £100 apiece and Mrs. Lake was directed to have Anna "set to school." His daughter Elizabeth Paschall, who had doubtless had her portion, and her two sons Andrew and Thomas, received small legacies, as did his niece Tabitha Lake, daughter of his brother Richard, and all his servants. John Lake was made residuary legatee and sole executor, with Andrew Paschall and Andrew Benton overseers. The witnesses were Thomas Man, Abraham Turke and Robert Castell.+

Elizabeth (Sandell) Lake, who at the time of her death was living with her daughter Mrs. Paschall at Nevendon, was buried at North Benfleet May 4, 1616. Her will, dated May 1, was proved June 3, 1616. She gave small sums to the poor of Basildon, North Benfleet and Nevendon, to her grandchildren and her servants Richard Woodley, Dorothy Sworder and John Wood. Larger sums went to her daughters Elizabeth Paschall (and "my best gowne"), Sybil Benton, Tamsen Lake and Anna Lake, Anna's legacy to be paid to her son John who was to care for her education between the ages of sixteen and eighteen. Thomas Lake was named residuary legatee and executor, with his brothers John and Richard overseers. The witnesses were Jeremy Rogers, Thomas Man and Thomas Playle. ‡

MARGARET, bapt. March 12, 1597/8; perhaps the Margaret Lake, infant, who was buried at Runwell, co. Essex, July 24, 1598.

Rev. Thomas, A. B. (1621/2), A. M. (1625), University of Cambridge, bapt. Oct. 21, 1600; m. —— Sumpter, who predeceased him; he d. in 1652.

He was admitted a pensioner at Peterhouse College, Cambridge, 7 July 1618, and matriculated the same year. He was ordained deacon at Peterborough 21 Dec. 1623 and priest on the following day. He was probably the Thomas Lake who was living at Laindon, co. Essex, in 1636, where were also members of the Sumpter family, as recorded in the Essex Ship-Money Returns. In 1638 he was presented to the living (vicarship) of Leyton, co. Essex, by Lady Lake, widow of Sir Thomas Lake of Stanmore, co. Middlesex, and in 1645 he was sequestered to the rectory of Wickford, co. Essex, the incumbent, Rev. Charles Grey, being a prisoner of the Parliamentary forces. Lake was summonsed for examination as to his fitness by the Assembly of Divines, but relinquished the rectory, which was thereupon sequestered to the use of Rev. John Banning.*

In his will, dated Feb. 18, 1651/2, and proved April 8, 1652, he left to his brother John Lake his land called Mangers alias Bacons, in Basildon, for life, with remainders in turn to his (Thomas's) sons John and Peter and his nephew Richard Lake, son of his brother Richard, deceased. To his son Peter he willed his lands called Great and Little Bradmore, in the parish of Stock, which he had bought of his cousin Richard Sandell, tailor. His sons John and Thomas received money and various articles of furniture, while Richard Sandell was left a silver-gilt cup with a cover and Sandell's children, Elizabeth, Thomas, Richard, Susan and Eleanor, had small legacies. The residue went to his son Peter, with Richard Sandell as his guardian, and also as executor. Brothers-in-law Robert Sumpter of Leaden Rooding and Francis Sumpter of White Rooding were named overseers, and, as the executor died before taking execution, they were made administrators cum testamento annexo.+

Children, all living in 1651/2:—

viii. Anne, bapt. Feb. 10, 1604/5; living in 1616, when her mother made her will.

John Lake was a legatee in the will of his uncle. Thomas Sandell, in 1593, was named as residuary legatee and executor in the will of his father in 1612, was mentioned and named as overseer in the will of his mother in 1616, was a legatee in the will of his sister, Elizabeth Breadcake, in 1651, and was a beneficiary in the will of his brother, Rev. Thomas Lake in 1651/2. By an indenture dated June 4, 1622, he sold Little Barstable Hall and its appurtenant properties in Basildon, Fobbing, and Vange, co. Essex, to Richard Chester of Leigh, co. Essex. 1 It would seem that he disposed also of the North Benfleet manors before 1636, as his name does not appear in the North Benfleet list of landowners in the Essex Ship-Money Returns in that year. He was probably the Mr. Lake who was recorded as of Basildon in the same return.

Sometime between 1631 and 1635 John Lake's wife, Margaret (Reade) Lake, left him and emigrated with her sisters and their families to New England, taking with her her two daughters, Ann and Martha Lake. For many years she lived in the family of her brother-in-law, Gov. John Winthrop, Jr., at New London, Conn., and is mentioned repeatedly in the Winthrop family correspondence. The last decade of her life was spent at Ipswich, Mass., the home of her daughter, Martha (Lake) Harris, and of her brother-in-law, Deputy Gov. Samuel Symonds. In 1654 Rev. Hugh Peter, Mrs. Lake's step-father, wrote from London to John Winthrop, Jr.: "John Lake is alive and lusty"; and in 1657 he stated to the same correspondent: "John Lake live(s) still." On Jan. 18, 1661/2, Mrs. Lake wrote from Wenham, to her brother-in-law, Governor Winthrop, who was in London: "Might I not bee to troublesome to you I would have desired yors. to have done mee yt courtesy as to have inquired concerning my husbands death, & how hee ended his dayes, as also to have inquired of my cousen Thomas Cooke, whether hee knew whether their was any thing left mee or no. . . . I would desire you inquire whether my sister Breadcale (sic) who dwells in Lee (Leigh), in Essex, bee liveing. You may heare of her, if liveing, at Irongate where boats weekly come from Lee." No will of John Lake has been found.

The will of Margaret Lake of Ipswich, widow, was made August 30 and proved September 24, 1672. To my daughter Hannah Gallop and her children, all my land at New London. To my daughter Hannah, my best gown, my red cloth petticoat and my enamelled ring, and after her decease my granddaughter Hannah Gallop shall have the ring. To my granddaughter Hannah Gallop, a pair of sheets, one of my best pewter platters and one of the next (best). To my daughter Martha Harris, my tapestry coverlet and all my apparel not disposed of particularly. To my daughter Martha, my mantle, and after her decease to all of her children as they need it. To my grandson Thomas Harris (and he dying without issue, to his brother John, and so to the rest of the children), the coverlet of tapestry, after my daughter Martha's decease. To my daughter Martha, and after her decease to my granddaughter Martha Harris, my gold ring. To my granddaughter Martha Harris, my bed and bedstead, one bolster, two blankets, two pillows and one coverlet. To my granddaughter Elizabeth Harris, one heifer at my cousin Eppes. To my granddaughter Margaret Harris, my carved box, a damask table-cloth and six damask napkins. All my brass and pewter, and all my household stuff not otherwise disposed, to my daughter Harris' children. To my grandson John Harris, my bible and a pair of fringed gloves. To my son Thomas Harris, all the rest of my estate: viz. my part of the vessell, and all my debts. Executors: my son Thomas Harris and my daughter Martha Harris. Witnesses: Thomas Knowlton, Sr., James Chute.*

The inventory, which was made up of clothing and household articles, totalled £141.

V

SANDELL, OF BASILDON, CO. ESSEX, ENGLAND

SANDELL

The family of Sandell of Basildon, co. Essex, lords of the manor of Little Barstable Hall, or Basildon Hall, appear to have been of the lesser gentry. They entered no pedigree in the various visitations of Essex, but one Leonard Sandell, born in Gloucestershire, perhaps a member of an off-shoot of the Essex family, lived and died in the latter county and claimed the right to bear a coat of arms. What coat he claimed is unknown, but the "General Armory" describes two coats under the names Sandall and Sandell, the first being "Argent, fretty sable, in each interstice a cross crosslet," and the second "Per pale or and gules, on a chevron argent between three crescents countercharged of the second and first as many cinquefoils azure."

When Mr. Morant wrote his History of Essex in 1768, Little Barstable Hall had been abandoned by its owner, a yeoman farmer, who had built another house on the property.

1. WILLIAM SANDELL of Basildon, co. Essex, was one of the executors of the will of William Hyde of Ramsden Belhouse about the year 1530. A priest, William Channoll or Chevenalle, was accused of forging this will and, in a suit brought about twenty years later, by John Hyde, a nephew of William Hyde, against the representatives of the executors, Hyde asserts that William Sandell and John Clovell of Ramsden, gentleman, instigated the forgery. William Sandell was then dead, and his son William, apparently regarding the suit as frivolous, answered that "he utterly distaineth to have anything in the said lands or goods of the said Hyde" and prayed to be discharged.*

The will of William Sandell of Nevendon was made Aug. 9, 1542. He directed that he be buried in Nevendon churchyard, and gave to the high altar there 20d. To my wife Johan all my land at Nevendon and Pitsea until my son John is of lawful age, and afterward, if she remain a widow, she shall have her dwelling in the same house; also sixteen kine, sixty sheep and hogrelles, £20, all the wheat growing at Grynsbe's, ten grs. of wheat besides to keep her house with, my swine and poultry, my brown ambling nag and my grisseled ambling nag and all my house-hold stuff, except six silver spoons which I give to my children, one to each and one to my godson William Harrys. To my son John, at lawful age, all my lands in Nevendon and Pitsea called Cranes, Lytmans and Newmans, also six horses with a shod cart, cart-harness, plow, plow-harness, etc., he to help my wife Johan in her husbandry. To my son Richard, at the age of twenty-one, a tenement called Shonkes in Vange at Noke, with nine kine and eighty ewes, also my silver cup my mother in law gave me, also my pied wenell. To my daughter Katherine twenty marks at the age of eighteen or at marriage, also my red wenell, the twenty marks to be paid from the profits of Shonkes. If John die without issue, the lands in Nevendon and Pitsea are to come to William and Richard equally, and if Richard die without issue all my lands in Vange at Noke, called Shonkes, are to remain to John. My executors are to sell my bay ambling gelding and my sorrel "forhorse." To my son William my black colt. If John and Richard die without issue, William shall give my daughters Johan and Katherine twenty marks. To the chantry of Laynd, 10s. To the church of Asceldon, 20s. To the church of Vange, 6s. 8d. To the church of Nevendon 6s 8d. To my godson William Stykerd a cow bullock. My godson William Steward to have a horse that was his own. To be distributed to the poor at my burial, 20s. Executors: my sons William and John. Overseer: my son-in-law John Harrys who is to have 10s. Witnesses: Rowland Rypple, parson, Thomas Brone, Antony Roo, John Tenderyng.*

William Sandell's widow, Joan Sandell, was living in 1562, when her son William made his will.

i. William, the defendant in the above mentioned suit, m. Joan—, and d. Nov. 27, 1563. On Oct. 18, 1567, an inquest post mortem was taken on his estate. He was found to be seized in fee of the manor of Little Barstable in the parish of Basildon, of land called Bacons and Waldens alias Langlands in the same parish, and of land called Undermans in the parish of Vange. The manor of Little Barstable was declared to be worth £20 a year, and was held of Anthony Welden, Esq., as of his manor of Swanscombe in Kent, by fealty. Bacons was held of Lady Bowser, Undermans of William Tanfelde, Esq., and Waldens of George Tyrrell, Esq., all by fealty and a nominal rental. John Sandell of Nevendon, Essex, yeoman, aged forty years, was found to be his brother and next heir, he having no children.† William Sandell made his will Nov. 27, and it was proved Dec.

William Sandell made his will Nov. 27, and it was proved Dec. 11, 1562. He left small sums for the repair of Basildon church, to the poor of the parishes of Basildon, Vange, Fobbing, Corring-ham, Laindon and Great Burstead, to the prisoners in London and Colchester and to the almshouse "this side Newgate." Money legacies went to his sister and brother-in-law Katherine and Thomas Hare and their children, his sister and brother-in-law Joan and John Harris and their sons William, James and John, his brother John Sandell's children and to eight servants. To his wife he left his house and land bought of Lady Norwich for life, with a remainder to his godson William Sandell, and his personal property, plate etc. was to be divided, after his wife's death, between William Sandell, Thomas Hare, William Hare and Robert Sandell. He provided for certain supplies to be given annually to his mother. The executors and residuary legatees were his brothers John and Richard Sandell, and his two brothers-in-law were named supervisors.*

2. ii. John, b. 1525.

iii. Richard; m. Margaret ———; d. Dec. 13, 1566; his widow m. John Ode of London, mercer, and was his widow in 1573.

An inquest post mortem was taken June 26, 1573, on the estate of Richard Sandell, of Vange, Essex, gentleman. He was found to be seized in fee of a messuage called Schonks alias Le Holmfield in Vange, held of George Whetenhall, Esq., by military service, of two acres called Shoberise in Vange, late the property of William Sandell, held of the manor, and forty acres in Vange held of William Tanfelde, Esq. The jurors declared that Joanna Sandell was the sole daughter and next heir and that she was aged thirteen or more.†

The context of the legacies to William and Robert Sandell, in the will of William Sandell (1562) would indicate that they were sons of Richard Sandell.

iv. Joan; m. before 1542 John Harris; both living with sons William, James and George, in 1562.

v. KATHERINE; m. Thomas Hare; both living, with children, Thomas and William, in 1562.

2. John<sup>2</sup> Sandell (William<sup>1</sup>) of Nevendon and Basildon, co. Essex, was born about the year 1525 as he was stated to be forty years of age in the inquisition taken in 1565 on the estate of his brother William, whose heir he was. He married Thomasine——, and presumably lived at Little Barstable Hall in Basildon.

The will of John Sandell of Basildon, yeoman, dated September 4, 1588, directed that he be buried in Basildon churchyard. To the poor of Basildon at my funeral, 20s. To my wife Thomasine, my house and lands in Nevendon called Cranes and Lytmans for life with remainder to my son Richard Sandell and his heirs. To my son Richard the land called Almond Downe

i. Thomas; m. twice, the name of his first wife being unknown, the second being Elizabeth Ladd, widow of John Ladd of Stanford-le-Hope, Essex, who m. (3) John Blake of Stock, Essex.

His will, dated Oct. 10, 1593, and proved April 11, 1594, directed that he be buried in Basildon churchyard. He stated that onethird of his lands held by knight's service (fealty) descended to his son John, and the other two-thirds, being the dower of his mother and his wife, also descended to John after their deaths. If John should die before reaching his majority, the inherited estate fell to his second son Thomas, subject to payments "to my sister Stanterford's children, my sister Dowe's son Roger Dow and my sister Lacke's children John, Elizabeth and Sybil." His wife had leave to live in his "capital house," presumably Little Barstable Hall, until Michaelmas after his death, when she was to move to the property called Sayers, which he left her, with various furnishings etc. for life, with a remainder to his son Thomas. To his daughters he left £20 apiece, and names them as Joan, Anne, Elizabeth, Mary, Thomasine and "my youngest daughter Anne." He directed that his wife bring up and educate the "four children we have had between us" and from the context it would seem that they were Thomas, Mary, Thomasine and the younger Anne. Finally small legacies were given to his boy Chatterton, his cousin Ann Pake "due to her of my father's gift," Abraham Richbell, widow Chatterton, widow Marrage and his daughter-in-law (step-daughter) Elizabeth Ladde, while the widow Ivyt was to be allowed to dwell in "Jacke-at-Woods" for life and the rent of Bacons was to go to his servant Alice Radlynne for five years. Thomas Taylor of Stornedowne and his brother Richard Sandell were named executors, and his brother William Hurte and Mr. John Pascall overseers.+

Thomas Sandell occupied lands in Brook, co. Somerset, held of the manor of Norton Ferres, which were later granted to his sons John and Leonard Sandell for the term of their lives. Leonard, doubtless the London lawyer who was born in Fairford, co. Gloucester, and whose will is abstracted below, sued his brother John 1558-1579.§ John Sandell was probably he who married Elizabeth, widow of Edmund Marten of Hinton-on-the-Green, co. Sandell 65

Leonard Sandell of Hatfield Peverell, co. Essex, Esquire, made his will August 24, 1570, and it was proved November 25, 1570. He left money to the poor of Hatfield and seventeen neighboring parishes and to the poor of Fairford in Gloucestershire, "where I was born." A large estate was left to his wife Elizabeth; her children (by a former husband) John, Christian, Mary, Jane, Elizabeth and Ellen Pillborough, his wife's grand-daughter Bessie Pillborough; his cousins the wife of John Ivie of London, the wife of John Tyrrell of Warleigh, William Dawtry, Esq., and Richard Knight of Redrithe; his brothers Robert and Edmund Sandell. "To my said brother Robert my great ring with my seal of arms, and my seal of silver with my arms and cognizance." "My land at Langdon Hills called Goldsmiths (leased to Lawrence Pake) mortgaged to me by the said John Tyrrell, I leave to my wife."*

These are a few items from a long document. Sandell was evidently a member of the bar, practicing in London, with estates in Essex and relations in that county. In connection with the land at Langdon Hills, leased to Lawrence Pake, it should be noted that Langdon Hills is only four miles from Little Barstable Hall and that John Sandell in his will (1588) left a legacy to "my kinswoman Agnes Pake." It seems most probable that some relationship existed between Leonard Sandell and the head of the family in Basildon.

VI
READE, OF WICKFORD, CO. ESSEX, ENGLAND

READE

The family of Reade, of Wickford, co. Essex, presents an interesting example of a gradual rise, by the acquisition of property, from the ranks of the yeomanry to the status of gentry. There is some slight evidence that the Reades had claims to gentility before the series of wills on which we rely in visualizing them commenced in 1534. When the brothers William and Thomas Reade applied to the College of Arms in 1654, arms were not granted but confirmed to them as follows: "Azure, a griffin segreant and a canton or; crest, a griffin's head erased azure, beak and ears or."* In the pedigree of the family of Mildmay the match is recorded of a Thomas Mildmay, living in the town of Chelmsford, near Wickford, in 1521, and Agnes Reade, whose parentage is unknown but who was a daughter of a family which bore as arms "Vert, a griffin segreant or."

Two at least of the farms owned by the Reades in Wickford and neighboring parishes, "Fryearne" and "Sopers," are still called by those names and can be easily identified.

1. WILLIAM READE of Wickford, yeoman, made his will on May 16, and it was proved on June 26, 1534. He piously committed his soul "to almighty God, our lady Saint Mary and all the holy company of heaven" and directed that his body be buried in the church or churchyard of Wickford. To the church he left 3s. 4d., to the high altar 20d., and to the priest £3-6d. "to sing for my soul and all Christian souls the space of half a year." To his grandchildren Roger Stonard, Elizabeth Stonard and Margaret Bundoke he left a cow and four sheep apiece. His son Roger Reade was designated executor and residuary legatee.

He was buried at Wickford March 17, 1558. He made his will December 10, 1557. To his wife he left various legacies, including "all such household stuff and plate as she had when and at such tyme as we were maryed" on condition that she release to his sons John and William all dower rights in the real estate of which he was seized at the time of his marriage and also deliver to them a bill of conveyance entered into by his wife and himself at the same time. His wife and son Roger were to remain "here in the house" with his sons John and William for a month after his decease. To his daughter Agnys Dowe, wife of Henry Dowe, he gave twenty-six shillings, eight pence. To his son John he devised his lands and house called Great Amys and Little Amys, in the parish of Wickford, and to his son William a house and land called Felds and land called Helman's Croft in the same parish. Roger, who was not of age, was to be kept in apparel by the executors and to receive forty pounds at his majority. Small legacies were left to Byttrys Hastler and Avys Hastler, and the residue of his estate, including a lease of land called Rosses, went to his sons John and William who were named executors. The witnesses were William Stamer, Thomas Deryvall and Edward Stamer.

The date of widow Elizabeth Reade's death is not recorded at

2. Agnes, bapt. Feb. 25, 1582/3; buried Aug. 4, 1583, at

Reade 71

3. WILLIAM<sup>3</sup> READE (Roger<sup>2</sup>, William<sup>1</sup>) was baptized in Wickford March 11, 1539/40. His first wife was Martha Church, daughter of John Church of the neighboring parish of Runwell, co. Essex, and she was the mother of all of his children. She was buried at Wickford December 16, 1577. His second wife, Mary -----, who survived him and probably married Arthur Helhouse at Wickford August 7, 1616, was a widow with children. Reade was buried at Wickford July 19, 1603.

William Reade seems to have increased the family property to a great extent, from the evidence of his will. He was local assessor of the Lay Subsidies of 1563, 1567, 1598 and 1600, in all of which he was a large tax-payer.

The will of William Reade of Wickford, dated July 3, 1603, directed that he be buried in Wickford church and to the poor of that parish he left £3. To the poor of Rayleigh, Rawreth, Nevendon and Runwell, £1 to each parish. To my wife Mary, £100 and a yearly allowance of £20 to be paid out of my lands by my son Edmund in lieu of her dower, six kine, a bay trotting gelding and all such household stuff and plate as she had at the time as we were married except such as she has since given to her children. My wife and her maid are to have dwelling and entertainment in my house in all honest and comely manner for one year after my death. To my son John, £300. To my brother Edmund Church £7: 13: 4. To my cousin Roger Reade, £8. To all of the household servants, 10s. apiece. To my son Edmund, all my lands and houses and the lease of the manor of Fryearne, which I bought of my brother Edmund Church, and he is residuary legatee and executor. Witnesses: William Harries, Thomas Meredythe.

viii. John, bapt. Jan. 25, 1575/6; mentioned in the will of his brother Edmund in 1623; the "kinsman," John Reade of Pitsaye, who was one of the overseers of the will, was probably his son; buried Oct. 12, 1629, at North Benfleet; Ellen Read, widow, who was buried Feb. 9, 1631/2, in North Benfleet, was probably widow of John, Sr.

4. Edmund Reade (William, Roger, William) was baptized in Wickford May 23, 1563. He married Thomasine Wallenger, daughter of Thomas Wallenger of Chelmsford, co. Essex, November 14, 1592, and in less than a month, on December 7, she was buried in Wickford. His second marriage, with Elizabeth Cooke, daughter of Thomas Cooke of Pebmarsh, co. Essex, took place about the year 1594.

From 1597 to 1612 the Reades lived in the neighboring parish of North Benfleet, probably in the small manor house, adjoining the church. He was assessed for goods at North Benfleet in subsidies of 1598 and 1600. By 1614 they had returned to Wickford, where Edmund Reade made his will November 20, 1623, of which an abstract, from a copy found in the Winthrop family papers, follows:

Will of Edmund Reade. To the poor of Wickford, 20s. To John Weald my servant, £5. To every one of my other servants, 2s. To William Reade my son & to my daughter Reade, 40s. apiece "to buy them rings." To wife Elizabeth, "those leases which I have of Mr. Edward Syliarde & Mr. George White and the lands and tenements lately purchased of Mr. Cockerum, now in possession of John Tyle," for life; after her decease the legacy above specified to my son William Reade, on condition that he enter into a bond to my wife Elizabeth to pay my son Thomas £240 within four score days after the death of my wife, or to Thomas's children if he be not then living. To second son Samuel and the heirs of his body the messuage and tenement called "Sopers," in the possession of George Ballard; if Samuel die without issue, the said messuage is to go to my son Thomas, and if Thomas die without issue to my son William; if "Sopers" comes thus into William's possession he is to give bond to the executrix or overseers of this will to pay £50 apiece to my grandchildren John Lake, Anna Lake, Daniel Epps and Elizabeth Epps, and £100 to my daughter Elizabeth. To my wife Elizabeth the lease of Frearne toward the maintenance and bringing-up of my third son Thomas Reade. To my son-in-law John Lake and my daughter Margaret Lake, 40s. apiece for rings. To John Lake and Anna Lake, their children, 20s. apiece. To Daniel Epps and Martha Epps my daughter 40s. apiece for rings. To Elizabeth Epps and Daniel Epps, their children, 20s. To daughter Elizabeth £200, at twenty years. To brother John Reade, £5. To son William "my young gray gelding now in the custody of my kinsman John Reade." Residue to wife Elizabeth. James Lawrence of Cliffords Inn, gentleman, and John Reade of

Pitsaye, my kinsman, overseers. Witnesses: Edmand Lamb, Edward Epps, Robt Marrable "he is Mr Thomas Lakes man."

"Mr. Edmonde Read" was buried at Wickford December 1,

Mrs. Reade married as her second husband Rev. Hugh Peter, son of Thomas and Martha (Treffry) Dyckwood alias Peter of Fowey, co. Cornwall. She died about 1637, and he married as his second wife Deliverance Sheffield, by whom he had one daughter, Elizabeth.

Rev. Hugh Peter graduated from the University of Cambridge, obtaining a B.A. in 1617/8 and an M.A. in 1622. It was while teaching school at Laindon, co. Essex, that he met and married Mrs. Reade, who must have been much his senior. Ordained by the Bishop of London, he was appointed curate at Rayleigh, but his non-conformist tendencies caused his departure for Holland in 1629 and in 1632 he was minister of the English church in Rotterdam. Being in constant communication with his wife's children in New England, he joined them in 1635, was made a freeman of Massachusetts Bay on March 3, 1635/6 and settled as minister of the Salem church in the following December. After five years of controversial ministry he left for England, as one of the colony's agents, in 1641, and the rest of his life was occupied in semi-military, semi-religious activity with the Parliamentary forces in Ireland and England during the Civil War. On the restoration of Charles II he was arrested, confined in the Tower, tried at the Old Bailey for complicity in the execution of Charles I, found guilty and executed October 16, 1660.*

VII CHURCH, OF RUNWELL, CO. ESSEX, ENGLAND

CHURCH

Much time and money have been spent in trying to identify the wife of that William Reade of Wickford who in his will made in 1603 named his brother Edmund Church. In the parish of North Benfleet, which adjoins Wickford, an Edmund Church was lord of the principal manor, and it seemed probable that William Reade's wife was one of the four sisters of this man, who was the son of a wealthy lawyer, John Church of Maldon, by his second wife, Mary Tyrrell. The records of this Church family were carefully searched over a period of years, without finding proof of a Church-Reade marriage. The chance examination of a will at Somerset House, however, has produced another John Church with a son Edmund and also definite proof of his daughter's marriage to William Reade.

John Church, born about 1520, leased the manor of Runwell Hall, in the parish of Runwell, co. Essex, from George White, Esq., sometime in the middle years of the sixteenth century. He had a nephew Francis Church who also lived at Runwell. The parish registers of Runwell begin with the year 1558 but there are no Church entries until the year 1573 when a child of Francis Church was baptized. From this fact and the reference in his will to his lands in the parish of Takeley, in the northern part of the county, it seems probable that the Churches were not natives of Runwell but came there from Takeley or its neighborhood.

John Church married twice, but the name of his first wife and mother of his children is unknown. His second wife was Margaret (Wiseman) Everard, daughter of Sir John Wiseman, Kt., and Lady Wiseman (Agnes Josselyn) and widow of ——— Everard. Sir John Wiseman owned a great estate in the parish of Much Canfield, co. Essex, a neighboring parish to Takeley.

Mr. John Church was buried at Runwell April 20, 1577. Mrs.

Church, widow, was buried July 16, 1585.

The will of John Church of Runwell, gentleman, was made February 26, 1577, and proved June 10, 1578. He directed that he be buried in the parish church, to which he bequeaths 13s. 4d. for repairs. To the poor of the parish, 10s. To my wife Margaret, £40, ten good kine, thirty good ewes, all such household goods as were hers, my young gelding, my dun mare and her colt and all those houses and lands, both copy and free, which I purchased of William Rogers, lying at Runwell street, for life. My wife shall continue here in my house of Runwell Hall and have one chamber, commonly called Thomas Church's chamber, and meat and drink provided for her at the cost of my executor, so long as she is unmarried and a widow. My wife shall have her kine and sheep well pastured and stored upon my farm at Runwell Hall, upon condition that she pay unto my son Thomas Church £3: 6:8 yearly. To my son Charles Church, £10, a silver bowl, sixteen good kine and four score good ewes, a gray trotting gelding, the standing bedstead in Thomas Church's chamber, all the houses and lands purchased from William Rogers, after the death of my wife, and that portion of my farm of Runwell Hall called Southlands, yielding to my son Thomas £8 yearly. Also to my son Charles, two pair of sheets, two pillowbears, one table cloth, one dozen of napkins, one towel, a basin and ewer, a wainscot table standing in the hall, a spit and a pair of cob-irons with three feet. To my son Edmund Church, all my lands in the parish of Takeley called the Great Park, sometime belonging to Colchester Hall, now in the tenure of John Seale, also that tenement of copy hold in Runwell called Princhettes, which I purchased of one Onge and his wife, also one parcel of my farm of Runwell Hall called Eastfield, yielding therefor £4 to my son Thomas yearly. Also to my son Edmund, twelve good kine, seventy good ewes, a standing bedstead I lie in myself, two pair of sheets, two pillowbears, one tablecloth, one dozen napkins, one towel, one basin and ewer, a wainscot table standing in the hall, a silver bowl, a bay colt three years old, a spit and £10. To my son Reade, £10. To Edmund Reade, John Reade and Margaret Reade, my daughter Martha's children, £3: 6: 8 apiece at the age of fifteen years, with right of survivorship. To Francis Greene, two heifer calves. To every of my men, 5s. apiece. To every of my maid-servants 2s. 6d. apiece. To my cousin Francis Church, 20s. and twenty good ewe lambs. To Charles Fuller, 5s. Executor and residuary legatee: my son Thomas Church. Overseer: Mr. George Whitt of Hutton, to whom £3: 6: 8 and a bay colt. Witnesses: Thomas Jolie, parson of Thundersley, Howell Griffith, with others.*

COOKE, OF PEBMARSH, CO. ESSEX, ENGLAND

COOKE

The village of Pebmarsh in the county of Essex is not far from the compact and busy little town of Halstead, but the winding lanes by which it is approached give it a feeling of remoteness. It is a purely agricultural parish, divided, as are many Essex parishes, into several small manors which are not more than large farms in extent. In such a parish yeoman families seem often to have acquired considerable wealth, and a position, through leasing the manors of absentee landlords, comparable to that of the provincial gentry. Of such were the Cookes and the Sydays of Pebmarsh. Their holdings were large, not only in their own parish, but in the neighboring villages of Alphamston, Lamarshe, Bures-at-Mount and in the town of Halstead, and during Cromwellian times their Puritan leanings, added to their wealth, brought them into prominence.

In the Visitation of Essex, 1634, the Cookes entered a pedigree, stating that their first Pebmarsh ancestor had come from the Essex parish of Horkesley and that "the ancient arms of this family of Cooke remaineth on a grave stone in Horkesley Church where one of the Ancestors lieth buried with the said arms." This coat was: Sable, three bendlets argent; Crest: a cockatrice statant argent, wings or, beaked and combed gules, and thus it may still be seen, not in the church of Horkesley but in that of Pebmarsh. It was exemplified or confirmed by the Clarencieux King of Arms in 1585 to John Cooke of Little Stambridge, son of Robert Cooke of Pebmarsh, with the difference of a field azure.*

1. John Cooke is stated in the Visitation pedigree to have come from Horkesley to Pebmarsh and to have married a daughter of the family of Newton. This would have been in the last years of the fifteenth century or early in the sixteenth. John Cooke, Senior, witnessed the will of John Syday, whose daughter married Cooke's son, in 1539.

Child (doubtless others):—

2. i. ROBERT.

ROBERT<sup>2</sup> COOKE (John<sup>1</sup>) was born about the year 1515. He married Joan Syday, daughter of John and Helen Syday of Pebmarsh, about the year 1539, when he and his wife fined for a toft, land and an acre of meadow in Pebmarsh, acquired from John Sewall.*

His father-in-law, John Syday, was a wealthy yeoman, who at the time of his death in 1539 owned the leases of Berwyke Hall in White Colne, co. Essex, Loveney Hall in Colne Wake, Cole Eugaine, White Colne and Bures-at-Mount, co. Essex, and of the manors of Paiton Hall in Bures and Lamarshe Hall in Lamarshe, co. Essex.†

Robert Cooke died before 1559 when his son Thomas Cooke fined for a tenement called Crosshouse in Pebmarsh, late the property of his father. ‡

The will of Johan Coke of Pebmarsh, widow, made November 17, 1561, and proved January 12, 1561/2, is a document containing many complicated legacies and provisions for remainder interests, obviously drawn up by a skillful lawyer, and it is here given in brief abstract. To Robert Coke, my son, the moiety or half part of my two marshes and two fields of land, customary in Pebmarsh, called Redingfen, Perytonfen, Stanliefield and Willifield, which I hold of the manor of Pebmarsh, until such time as my eldest son Thomas Coke shall have conveyed to his brother Robert an estate in all those lands and tenements which Robert Coke, my late husband, held in the town of Halstead, whereupon the said Thomas Coke shall have the said moiety, to him and his heirs forever. To John Coke, my youngest son of that name, the other moiety of the said two marshes and two fields, until such time as the said Thomas my son shall have conveyed to the said John the younger the water-mill with the close of land thereunto belonging, whereupon the said Thomas shall have the said moiety, to him and his heirs forever. To the aforesaid Thomas, my son, one feather-bed, all my brewing vessels and brass hanging in the furnace, my best joined bedstead, my best cupboard, my conter table, my querne with the bin, my yeting vat, my fabting trough and all the stalls, shelves and ladders belonging to the house. I bequeath the whole residue of my stuff, utensils and implements to be equally divided amongst my six other children hereunder named: John the elder, John the younger, Lawrence, Robert, Elene and Margerie, at marriage or the age of eighteen. I bequeath all my jewels and apparel to be equally divided between my two daughters, with £10 in ready money to each of them at marriage or the age of eighteen. All residue to the said Thomas, my son, on condition that he pay to each of my sons John the elder and Lawrence £30 at the age of eighteen, and that he shall at his cost honestly keep, find and bring up all of his brothers and sisters until such time as they shall come to convenient age otherwise to provide for themselves. I name my aforesaid son Thomas and my loving brother-in-law John White executors, and my friendly cousin John Quedwell to be supervisor, and I bequeath to each of them 20s. besides his reasonable costs and expenses. Witnesses: John Sewall the elder, Christopher Sydey, Gyffrie Sydey, John Sewall the younger, Henry Sydey and others.*

Children: —

- 3. i. Thomas.
  - ii. John, the elder; according to the visitation pedigree, one of the two sons named John lived at Little Stambridge, co. Essex, and d. s. p. and it was to him that the family arms were confirmed in 1585; the other John married and had children mentioned in the will of his brother Thomas in 1621.
  - iii. John, the younger.
  - iv. LAWRENCE; living, with children, in 1621.
    v. Robert; living, with children, in 1621.
  - vi. Helen or Ellen: named for her grandmother Syday; probably the daughter who m. (Thomas?) Wiscowe and had a son Thomas Wiscowe living in 1621.
  - vii. Margery; probably the daughter who m. ——— Sawen and had children living in 1621.
- 3. Thomas Cooke (Robert, John) was still a minor when his mother made her will in 1561, but its terms, and the fact that in 1559 he fined for a tenement called Crossehouse, late the property of his father, + would indicate that he was near his majority, and the date of his birth may be reasonably estimated as 1541. According to the visitation pedigree he married three times: (1) Margaret Rice of Bures St. Mary, co. Suffolk, (2) Elizabeth North of Colchester, co. Essex, and (3) Susan Brand of Boxford, co. Suffolk. The record of only the last marriage has been found, and it took place, not at Boxford, but at Bures St. Mary in the year 1568. If the pedigree is accurate it is obvious that his first two wives died in the seven year period between 1561 and 1568. The pedigree credits his son Thomas to his first wife, but it would seem that the mother of his daughter Elizabeth was either the second or third, inasmuch as Elizabeth was married about 1594 and had a child born as late as 1614.

In 1583 he fined for entry into sixteen acres of land in Pebmarsh and Alphamston acquired from John Quodwell and Ralph Northey, in 1585 for entry into eight additional acres purchased of the same two men and in 1586 for entry into six acres called Reynoldscroft acquired of John Smythe of Polleys.*

The will of Thomas Cooke the elder of Pebmarsh, yeoman, was made August 30 and proved November 26, 1621. To the poor of Pebmarsh, £5. To the poor of Alphamston and Lamarshe, 10s. to each parish. To the parish of Pebmarsh £5 as an increase to the stock given by Mr. Hugh Clapham, sometime minister of the parish, to purchase a house or lands. To Thomas Cooke, my grandson, a messuage called Goddards and all my lands which I late purchased of John Hilton, gentleman, and Mary his wife, situate in Gestingthorpe and Little Maplestead, co. Essex, now in the occupation of John Clark or his assigns. To my brothers Lawrence Cook and Robert Cook, during their natural lives, 40s. apiece yearly. To Thomas Wiscowe, the younger, my sister's son, £5. To every one of the children of my brother John Cook, deceased, my sister Wiscowe and my sister Sawen, deceased, and my brother Lawrence, not before nominated, 20s. apiece. To George Cooke, my grandson, lands in Lamarshe had by grant of Robert Becle of Lamarshe. I forgive Edmund Reade, my son-in-law, the three score pounds due me by his bill of December 1, 1606. To my daughter Elizabeth, now his wife, three score pounds in one year after my decease. To my said daughter Elizabeth and to Margaret her daughter, now wife of John Lake, and Susan, now wife of my son Thomas, one "spur Riall" of gold apiece. To Samuel Reade, my grandchild, £40, and to every of the residue of my daughter Reade's children unmarried, £10 to be paid within one year after my decease, to them or to their father for them. To every one of the children of my son Thomas Cooke, £20 apiece. The residue to my son, Thomas Cooke the younger, whom I make sole executor. If he refuse, my son-in-law Edmund Reade to be my sole executor. To Martha Reade, now wife of ---- Epps of London, my grandchild, £10. To Johane Gillott, my late servant, 20s. To Maryon Edwards, Clement Chandler and Elizabeth Hayward, 5s. apiece, to William Scott, George Smith and Samuel Medcalf, 3s. 4d. apiece, and to Thomas Maninge, Thomas French and Richard Goodwin, 2s. 6d. apiece. 4. Thomas Cooke (Thomas, Robert, John) of Pebmarsh and Great Yeldham, co. Essex, married, according to the visitation pedigree, Grace Upshur, of Fordham, co. Essex. Before 1621, when she was mentioned in his father's will, he married Susan——, a widow. From the inscription in Pebmarsh church to the memory of his daughter-in-law, Elizabeth Cooke, it would appear that he had eleven children, seven sons and four daughters, but from the wills of himself and his widow it is evident that only three sons and one daughter survived, all of them being children of his first wife.

The will of Thomas Cooke of Great Yeldham, made September 17, 1638, was proved February 8, 1638/9. To the poor of Great Yeldham, 40 s. To the poor of Pebmarsh, £5. To his wife Susan, copyholds held of the manors of Pebmarsh and Henny Magna or £40 per annum for life, copyholds and freeholds in Lanmarsh with remainder to his son Thomas, and all his household goods with remainder to his son Thomas and daughter Grace Bennett. To second son Joseph, customary tenement in Baisett (Brisett?) Magna, co. Suffolk. To son-in-law John Bennett and daughter Grace, his wife, lands in Tillingham and Dengye, conditional on their joining in a sale of his lands in Mesden and Wickhambrooke. To each grandchild, £20. To daughter Grace, £3. To Elizabeth Cooke, wife of his son Thomas, £3. To John Cooke the elder of Pebmarsh, his wife and child. To kinsmen and kinswomen Robert Cooke, Lawrence Cooke, Mary Scott, Bridget Cooke, and Joane daughter of Thomas Wistowe, late of Pebmarsh. To servants Johane Gylot, George Warren, William Pearman, Francis Harrington and William Parminter. The residue was to be divided among his children, and his son Thomas was named executor and his sonin-law John Bennett assistant.*

The will of Susan Cooke of Little Yeldham, widow of Thomas Cooke, gentleman, was made May 19, 1641, and proved December 3, 1645. To her brother John Robins, his wife and their children. #### SEARLE

1. WILLIAM SEARLE of Boston, a carpenter, came to Ipswich and bought land there on May 19, 1663, from Sherborn Wilson. As nothing has been found concerning his early life it remains uncertain whether he was an original emigrant from England or of the second generation in America. Nor is it known where he married his wife, Grace———.

On September 26, 1663, he assigned to Thomas Dennis of Portsmouth the "deed of sale" covering the house and land purchased from Wilson.*

Searle's life in Ipswich was short, as he died August 16, 1667. He made a nuncupative will, sworn to on September 24, 1667, by Deacon Thomas Knowlton and Mary Taylor, as follows: "William Searle when he lay sick sent for mee Thomas Knowlton & Robt Peirse & when we came he asked us to be helpfull to his wife, he said he would leave that little estate he had to his wife & in case what was owing to him would not pay his debts his will was that his land should be sould toward the payment thereof." Knowlton and Peirse took the inventory of the small estate, the chief item of which was the house valued at £23, the total being £93.

On February 23, 1722/3, a grandson, William Searle of Rowley, was appointed administrator of such property of his grandfather as had not already been administered.†

The widow Grace Searle married Thomas Dennis October 26, 1668, and died October 24, 1686, aged fifty years, according to * Essex Deeds, 8:69. This assignment was witnessed by Abel Adams, a Portsmouth man. and acknowledged before Richard Cutt, a Portsmouth magistrate. In 1665 a William Searle attached his mark to a New Hampshire petition to the king, praying to be freed from Massachusetts jurisdiction (N. H. Prov. Papers, 17:512-3), and in 1667 land was laid out to a William Searl at Spruce Creek, Kittery. Is this New Hampshire man identical with the Ipswich William Searle? There were other Searles early at Piscataqua who may have been closely related to William Searle of Ipswich, whose temporary residence in Boston, possibly during apprenticeship, may have followed a boyhood in Portsmouth.

† Essex Probate, No. 25009. A paper containing obvious errors was entered in court on the same day: "Grace Harris sister of ye sd. Willia. Searle Decd. having given her Quitt claime to the said Estate and and (sic) Samll. Searle elder Brother to Willia. Searle the now adm. came in to the office and refusd. his Right of Administration." Grace Harris was the daughter, not the sister of William Searle whose estate was to be administered, and the elder brother was John Searle, not Samuel. It is apparent that three generations of relationships were stated to a clerk, who, by inattention or confused explanation, misunderstood them.

- Samuel<sup>2</sup> Searle (William<sup>1</sup>) moved from Ipswich to Rowley, and married about the year 1685, Deborah Bragg, daughter of Edward Bragg. He followed his father's trade of joiner or carpenter. He died in Rowley April 4, 1691. His widow was appointed administratrix of his estate and returned an inventory on April 7, 1691, the chief item being "his shop and tools belonging to his Joyners trade, £11." "A bible and a drinking coper pot" were listed together and valued at 11s. A debt of £14 was due from his father-in-law for work on a house.‡

Edward Bragg, for parental love and affection, deeded to his daughter Deborah Searle, on April 22, 1695, the buildings and land which he had purchased of John Todd.§

Widow Deborah Searle died in Rowley March 25, 1703.

X COWES, OF IPSWICH

COWES

The broad estuary of the river Teign, in the county of Devon, is bounded on the west by a range of rounded hills which descend sharply to the water. About a mile from the river's mouth a steep lane ascends a wooded valley which winds through the hills, and from its highest point one looks down on the ancient gray church tower and clustered thatched roofs of the little village of Stoke-in-Teignhead, backed by another line of Devon combes. In this peaceful country spot, with no visible hint of the sea, but only a short walk from the channel cliffs and the still harbor of Teignmouth, lived in the seventeenth century a hardy seafaring population which sent many sons on the New World adventure, among them Giles and Christopher Cowes of Ipswich and Michael Cowes of Marblehead.

WILLIAM Cowes, of Stoke-in-Teignhead, co. Devon, possibly that son of William Cowes baptized May 4, 1561, was buried April 28, 1621. He married first, October 18, 1588, Elizabeth Tapley, who was buried December 6, 1593, and secondly, June 6, 1594, Honor Lange, who survived him.

His will, dated March 26 and proved May 29, 1621, directed that he be buried in the church yard of Stoke-in-Teignhead, and left small legacies to his sons Giles, John, William and Thomas, to his daughters Charity and Dorothy Cowes and Joan Halley, to Gideon and Richard Zevy, and named his wife Honor Cowes residuary legatee and executrix. It was witnessed by Richard Lang and John Simon, and an inventory in the sum of £53 was returned by John Ford, Gregory Aleygh and Richard Lang.*

Honor Lang was the daughter of Geoffrey Lang of Combeinteignhead, co. Devon, whose will, dated January 2, 1629, and proved March 15, 1632, left £5 to his daughter Honor Couse, 40s. to his daughter Charity Goard, 10s. to Honor Alford and the residue to his son Richard Lang, executor.+

He married April 12, 1640, Mary Lux, who survived him and died between August 19, 1690, and June 27, 1691, the dates of the making and proving of her will.

His will left small gifts to his sons Giles, Thomas, William and Richard, his daughters Mary Cowes and Julian Loring, his land called Pegens to his daughter Susanna Cowes after the death of his wife, his homestead to his daughter Julian Loring with the same limitation, and named his wife Mary residuary

legatee and executrix.+

The will of Mary Cowes, widow, mentions her sons Giles and Richard, her daughter Mary Coysh (Couch), her grandchildren Robert Lang and Susan and Elizabeth Cowes (children of her deceased son Thomas), her brother John Lux (a parcel of land

From a deposition made in 1671, wherein he stated that he was about twenty-seven years old, it appears that he was fishing at the Isles of Shoals in 1666.* When he settled in Ipswich he was a ship-master, doing a coasting trade, although he may have undertaken voyages to England as well. He was administrator of the estate of his brother Christopher in 1677 and was remembered with small legacies by his father and mother in England in 1680 and 1690. In 1690 he was master of the bark "Speedwell" which was captured by the French and recaptured by Capt. John Alden at Port Royal. In 1693 he administered the estate of his father-in-law, Thomas Berry, and "Mrs. Cowes personally appeared and prayed further time in bringing in an inventory in behalf of her Husband."+

Mr. Cowes does not seem to have owned land in Ipswich until 1695 when he bought eight acres from John Peagry and three acres from Bonus Norton. He died intestate and his widow was appointed administratrix of his estate May 19, 1697. In the account of the division of his property a list of his children appears as follows: William Cowes, eldest son, Mary Cowes, Hannah Oliver, Agnes Cowes, Elizabeth Cowes and Giles Cowes. ‡

Mrs. Cowes was assigned a prominent seat in the Ipswich meeting-house in 1719/20. Her will, dated July 27, 1722, leaves three shillings to her son Giles "if he come to demand it, he having had a sufficient part of his father's estate," and the residue to her daughter Elizabeth, wife of John Harris, and her (Elizabeth's) children. Harris and his wife, with whom Mrs. Cowes lived, were named executors and proved the will October 23, 1731.§

XI BERRY, OF IPSWICH

BERRY

Thomas Berry, a dyer, was resident in Ipswich in the latter half of the seventeenth century. His name appears scarcely at all upon the records and there is no indication of the time of his settlement. It would seem that he was an emigrant from England, possibly by way of Barbadoes, and not a native of New England. He owned no land but was probably the tenant of a house on the Simon Lynde estate.

He died in 1693, when, on May 11, his daughter Agnes Cowes was appointed his administratrix. An inventory, dated August 28, 1693, showed that the small estate was "in the hands of Giles Cowes and of Widow Berry, the relict of Peter Berry." Capt. Cowes reported to the court that he had purchased for his father-in-law's account dye-wood, copperas, alum and cloth, to the amount of £6, for which he had received no payment.*

i. Agnes; m. Giles Cowes Feb. 27, 1672. (See Cowes.)

Peter; m. Sarah ———; d. before March 13, 1693, when his widow was appointed to administer his estate.† Her sureties were Capt. John Gould of Topsfield and John Putnam of Salem Village. These men were cousins, Putnam's mother having been a Gould, and their association with Sarah Berry in this capacity undoubtedly indicates relationship. Capt. Gould wrote a letter to the court stating "at present there is no estate of Peter Berry to be found but those old papers that are in his sister's hands,' and also mentions a chest which had come or was to come from Barbadoes. This may indicate that Berry was a mariner and died in Barbadoes, or that Barbadoes was a former home of the family before its arrival in Ipswich. On May 25, 1693, an inventory of £23 was brought in, but it was apparently not complete as on Sept. 28 Sarah Berry prayed for longer time to produce one, "pleading she hath been sick." The estate was finally declared insolvent and Mr. John Whipple and Mr. Nathaniel Rust were appointed to receive claims.

XII JONES, OF IPSWICH

JONES

1. NATHANIEL JONES, said by his grandchildren to have been a Welshman, came to Ipswich at the beginning of the eighteenth century. At about the same time Griffith Jones, probably a fellow-countryman and possibly a relative, settled in the town. Nathaniel married Rachel Bradford, daughter of William and Rachel (Rayment) Bradford of Beverly, January 3, 1704. He died March 3, 1750, and his widow, Rachel, died March 26, 1754.

Except for bare vital statistics, nothing has been found in the public records about Jones. He owned no land and may be supposed to have been a tenant of some house in the village, nor was his estate settled in the probate court. In 1790 his family was represented in the town by two grandsons, Thomas and Nathaniel, sons of his son William, while the family of Griffith Jones had completely disappeared. Among the descendants of Nathaniel Jones are numbered many able physicians and clergymen.

2. Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> Jones (Nathaniel<sup>1</sup>) was born in Ipswich October 18, 1705. He married Sarah Annable, daughter of John Annable of Ipswich Hamlet, now the town of Hamilton, November 16, 1726. He was a fisherman and sailor until 1758, when he was called yeoman. He died before 1763, but neither the date of his death nor that of his wife appears in the town records.

On October 22, 1733, Nathaniel Jones, Jr., purchased from Joseph Grow one and a half acres and a dwelling-house on what was politely known as Brook Street and commonly as Hog Lane, in Ipswich, which he and his wife Sarah sold to his brother-in-law John Henderson, Jr., in 1751.* He had bought from John Baker,

Jr., eight acres in the same locality in 1742, and, if this land had no house upon it, Jones must have built one as on March 1, 1756, he and his wife conveyed the northwest end of their dwelling and two acres of land to their son-in-law George Newman, Jr.* The remainder he mortgaged to Henry Wise, shopkeeper, on March 29, 1758, but, John Henderson having obtained an execution against Jones, Wise deeded the property to him, on payment of the mortgage debt, on November 10, 1763, at which time Nathaniel Jones was dead.+

WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> Jones (Nathaniel<sup>1</sup>) was born in Ipswich October 31, 1707. He married Joanna Lord, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Potter) Lord, October 13, 1729. He died in November, 1782.

He was a felt-maker and hatter, and acquired a large property, which he lost in his old age "by endorsing the paper of a friend, who proved to be a rogue." The house, opposite the Town Hall, which he built in 1728, remained the home of his descendants until 1881. Therein he entertained Rev. George Whitefield when that distinguished evangelist visited Ipswich, and Mr. Jones, who was very devout, was often called "Whitefield's New Light." His pew in the new meetinghouse of the first parish, purchased in 1749, remained in the family until 1846, when the building was demolished.

Mr. Jones' grandchildren remembered his "scrupulous care in demeanor, language and dress." The latter habitually consisted of a velvet coat, knee breeches, silver shoe and knee buckles, a gold-headed cane, and doubtless one of the three-cornered hats of his own manufacture. ‡

1805. He died Jan. 12, 1819, his widow surviving until the following June 6. Ten children, including Dr. Joseph Jones of

xv. John, bapt. May 6, 1753; d. Nov., 1787.

John<sup>2</sup> Jones (Nathaniel<sup>1</sup>) was baptized in Ipswich December 28, 1712. He married Mary Whipple August 30, 1734. She was probably from Ipswich Hamlet, later the town of Hamilton, where Jones lived after his marriage, his children being baptized in the Hamlet church. The death of "the father to Dudley Colman's wife; aged 69," was recorded in Newburyport in June, 1781.

This family was not represented in Ipswich in the census of 1790, but the grandsons John and Samuel, who were living in 1782, may have settled elsewhere and left descendants.

Children, baptized in Ipswich:

i. Mary, bapt. Aug. 1735; buried Aug., 1737.

- ii. Joнn, bapt. Sept., 1737; killed in action at Lake George, Sept. 8,

- 2. John, b. April 23, 1765.
- 3. Samuel, b. March 12, 1767.
- 4. Katherine, b. Dec. 29, 1768; m. April 2, 1793, Capt. William Brown, son of Capt. Moses and Sarah (Coffin) Brown of Newburyport, who was lost at sea in 1799; three children-William, Catherine Wigglesworth and Martha Maria Brown, born 1794-1797; Mrs. Brown was a school-mistress in Georgetown, D. C., and d. in Cincinnati in 1863.

iv. Samuel, bapt. March 28, 1742. As Mrs. Colman's husband's Symones, bapt. March 3, 1744/5. Samuel, bapt. March 28, 1742. niece stated that Mrs. Colman had only one brother, Nathaniel, it seems that these two sons died in infancy.

Mary, bapt. Aug. 15, 1749; m. Nov. 15, 1770, Dudley Colman of Newbury, Harvard 1765. He was town clerk of Newbury, Lieut.-Colonel in the Revolutionary army, and town clerk of Brookfield, N. H., where he d. Nov. 16, 1797, aged 52. Colman was a tavernkeeper, and for several years before moving to Brookfield he kept "The Bunch of Grapes" in Boston. "Mrs. Colman was a tall dignified woman, possessing a superior education and much elegance of manner." Col. and Mrs. Colman had four children:
(1) Rev. Henry Colman of Hingham and Salem; (2) John Jones Colman; (3) Charles Colman, who had a distinguished record in the War of 1812; (4) Bridget Colman, who m. ——— Chappetin, of Providence, R. I.*

DR. BENJAMIN<sup>2</sup> Jones (Nathaniel<sup>1</sup>) was born in Ipswich December 4, 1716. He was a physician, practicing in Beverly, where he became a prominent citizen. During the Revolution he was a member of the Committee of Correspondence and Safety.

Dr. Jones married, March 3, 1736, Mary Woodbury, daughter of Josiah and Lydia (Herrick) Woodbury of Beverly. She died March 2, 1747/8, in her thirty-first year. His second wife, whom he married July 17, 1749, was Ginger Leach, daughter of Maj. John and Rachel (Putnam) Leach, and niece of Gen. Israel Putnam. She died December 13, 1756, aged twenty-nine. He married, third, Sarah Endicott, daughter of Capt. Samuel Endicott of Danvers, December 20, 1757.

Dr. Jones died June 23, 1794, "in his 78th year." His widow

XIII BRADFORD, OF BEVERLY

BRADFORD

ROBERT BRADFORD and his brother William, fishermen, settled in Beverly between the years 1660 and 1670. They were original emigrants from England, probably from some coast village in Dorset, Somerset or Devon, in which counties the name Bradford is not uncommon and from which so many of the first settlers of Beverly emigrated. Attempts to derive them from the family of Governor Bradford of Plymouth are futile, nor were they sons of Robert Bradford of Boston, 1639, as he deeded his land to his only son, Moses, in 1673.*

Bradford was born, according to several estimates of his age, between 1626 and 1632. He may have lived in Marblehead before coming to Beverly, as in 1664 Robert Bradford, aged thirty-two and a neighbor of Samuel Walton of Marblehead, testified that Lot Conant asked him to tell Richard Ober, whom Bradford saw in Boston, to make haste to see Walton.+

He was certainly in Beverly by 1672, when his first recorded child was born, the marriage record of himself and Hannah — not being found. She owed the estate of William Woodbury £2 in 1676.

Bradford, aged forty-seven, testified to a disturbance in the Beverly meetinghouse in 1673. He was on a jury of inquest in 1675, a tythingman in 1677, took the oath of fidelity in 1678 and was the town constable in 1679.

He died January 13, 1706/7, aged about eighty, a widower. William Bradford, his brother, on whom the court settled the estate as "only surviving brother of Robert Bradford, late of said Beverly, yeoman, deceased, and no other relatives in equal degree or representatives of them living," was appointed administrator December 30, 1706, Jonathan and Nathaniel Rayment being his sureties. The inventory listed seventeen acres of land and various personal items, including books (£3), five guns and other arms (£2:6:0) and five chests (£1:5:0). His funeral cost £16.‡

Children, born in Beverly, all dead in 1706:—

John, b. May 29, 1672. Robert, bapt. March 19, 1675/6. Martha, bapt. Aug. 29, 1676.

WILLIAM BRADFORD, born about the year 1639 and presumably in England, came to Beverly with his brother Robert, and, like him, was a fisherman and husbandman. He married November 14, 1676, Rachel Rayment, daughter of John and Rachel (Scruggs) Rayment of Beverly, who died before 1697. His second wife was Jane (Allison) Shaw, daughter of Ralph and Anne (Dixon) Allison and widow of Peter Shaw of Scarborough, Maine, and Beverly. He died June 15, 1717, aged about seventy-eight, and his widow married, March 13, 1717/8, Robert Leach, as her third husband.

On February 1, 1696/7, his father-in-law, John Rayment, "for love and affection to my son-in-law William Bradford, husbandman, and for the love I bear to the children of him by his former wife, my daughter Rachel," deeded to him twenty acres in Beverly. This is undoubtedly the twenty acres, with a dwellinghouse, barn, etc., bounded on the east and south by land of Capt. William Rayment, on the west by the country road and on the north by Capt. William Dodge, which Bradford gave to his son

William on April 6, 1708.*

He took the oath of fidelity December 3, 1677.

His eldest son, William Bradford, was appointed to administer his estate on June 28, 1717, his cousins Jonathan and Edward Rayment being on his bond. The account lists among the funeral expenses eight pairs of gloves at two shillings a pair, eleven pairs of gloves at one shilling six pence a pair, three pairs of black gloves, two mourning weeds, wine and half a barrel of cider.+

Children, born in Beverly:—

of Samuel Elliot, in 1713,* and in 1719 Priscilla Nichols of Salem executed a deed of gift by which goods, money, plate and linen were transferred to her cousins Grace Bradford and Mary Trask, a silver tankard and a great Bible, which were to go to Andrew Elliot of Boston, being excepted from the gift.+

Bradford was called husbandman, cooper, seaman, weaver and ropemaker at different periods of his life. He lived in Beverly until after the death of his father, when in 1721 he sold his house and land in Beverly to various purchasers, ‡ and bought a lot of fifteen acres in Boxford from Samuel Perley. § After 1747 he was of Middleton, doubtless living with his son Samuel, to whom he had deeded, for love and affection, a house, orchard and twenty acres of land in 1743/4. || Samuel administered his estate in 1761, presumably the year of his death.

XIV RAYMENT, OF BEVERLY

RAYMENT

ROBERT RAYMENT, yeoman, of Charlton Mackerell, co. Somerset, England, made his will June 3, 1605, and it was proved on June 22 of the same year. He made his son George residuary legatee and executor, and left small legacies in money and cattle to his wife Agnes, sons Robert, John and Francis, and daughters "Audred," Joan Rayment and Maud Ryall. The overseers were John Parker and Henry Squier of Kingston, and the witnesses Adam Farnham and Robert Raise.*

Children (order of birth unknown):—

2. i.

ROBERT; m. Agnes Hillary Nov. 3, 1597, at Charlton Mackerell. ii.

iii.

FRANCIS.

MAUD; m. Philip Reyall Oct. 21, 1585, at Charlton Mackerell.

ALICE; m. James Evererd Nov. 26, 1590, at Charlton Mackerell; would seem to be "my daughter Audred" named in Robert Rayment's will.

vii. Joan.

GEORGE RAYMENT, living in the town of Glastonbury, co. Somerset, seven miles from the village of Charlton Mackerell, was possibly the son of Robert Rayment mentioned in the latter's will, but no proof has been discovered.

George Rayment, of the parish of St. John's, Glastonbury, made his will June 26, 1651, and it was proved October 30, 1651. He left legacies to his daughter Dorothy Robyns, her husband and child, of the parish of Streete, to his daughter-in-law, the wife of his son Maurice, and her child, to John and Lucy Seemer, children of William Seemer, and to his children William, John and Elizabeth Rayment, all three of whom are stated to be "in New England." The residuary legatee and executor was his son Maurice Rayment, and William Seemer and William Billocks were named overseers.+

From the dates of baptism of his children, it appears that Rayment was married at least twice. Dorothy and George, both baptized before 1618, were probably children of his wife Joan, who was buried at St. John's on April 3 of that year. Maurice and William were by a later wife, while Elizabeth, of whose age there is no indication, and John cannot be placed.

Children:—

- Dorothy, bapt. Oct. 8, 1611, at Compton Dundon,* a parish about i. three miles from Glastonbury, in the direction of Charlton Mackerell; m. ——Robyns, of Streete; both living in 1651.

  George, bapt. March 16, 1616, at St. John's, Glastonbury; d. before
- ii.
- 3. iii. John, b. 1616-1622.
  - ELIZABETH; in New England in 1651; it would seem probable that iv. she was the wife of some Beverly or Salem settler.
  - MAURICE, bapt. (Morris) April 24, 1621, at St. John's, Glastonbury; v. m. and living in 1651.
- WILLIAM, b. about 1637. 4. vi.
- John<sup>2</sup> Rayment (George<sup>1</sup>) was born, presumably in Glastonbury, in the years between 1616 and 1622. He was stated to be thirty-eight in 1660,† and "about eighty-seven" at his death in 1703. He emigrated to America before 1651, when he is mentioned in his father's will as being in New England. He settled in Salem on what was called "Bass River side," later the town of Beverly, and married there Rachel Scruggs, only surviving child of Thomas Scruggs, prominent in the town's civil and religious life. In 1659 William Ellett's wife was fined for saying that John Rayment's wife was "a firebrand from hell, for her lying tongue." ‡ Upon her father's death in 1654, by agreement with her mother, Rayment took over the Scruggs estate. Rachel (Scruggs) Rayment died May 2, 1666, and as his second wife Rayment married Judith Woodbury, widow of William Woodbury, Jr., of Beverly, who died October 31, 1702, aged about seventy-five. He died January 18, 1703.

Rayment was a grand juryman in 1653, 1654, 1658 and 1659; constable "for Bass River side" in 1659 and 1660; selectman of Beverly in 1670, and took the oath of fidelity there in 1677. He was frequently employed in appraising estates, among them being those of John Friend (1655), Annis Balch (1657), Samuel Porter (1659), Nehemiah Hayward (1665), Roger Haskell (1667), Henry Herrick (1671), Richard Dodge (1671), Lot Conant (1674), John Batchelder (1675), Osmund Trask (1676), Edith Dodge (1677), Roger Conant (1679), and John Herrick (1680).

Children, by first wife:—

- John. In 1670 he was involved in a somewhat disgraceful episode i. at the house of Robert Hebberd, and in the testimony in the resulting court action occurs the phrase "John Rayment's cousin Mary Cook came in." As he had no first cousins on his mother's side, this may be a clue to the marriage of his aunt Elizabeth Rayment. He served in King Philip's war and is stated to have been the first soldier to enter the stockade in the Narragansett Fort fight, in December, 1675. He. m. - CAPT. WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> RAYMENT (George<sup>1</sup>) was born, presumably in Glastonbury, about the year 1637, as he was stated to be sixty in 1697 and seventy-two at his death in Beverly on January 29, 1709. As he was in New England in 1651, he must have emigrated as a boy of fourteen, with his brother and sister. He, himself, testified on December 28, 1697, that he came to New England "about the year 1652." His first wife was Hannah Bishop, daughter of Edward and Hannah Bishop of Beverly, who died between 1676 and 1682. He married, second, Ruth Hull, daughter of Isaac and Sarah Hull of Beverly, who died in 1738.

William Rayment had a notable military career. After serving in King Philip's war and being in action in the Narragansett Fort fight, he was appointed lieutenant-commander of the Beverly and Wenham troop by the General Court in 1683, and in 1690 commanded a company in the Canada expedition. He was a deputy to the General Court in 1685 and 1686, and in the local government he served as selectman in 1670, constable in 1674 and as juryman in 1667 and 1676. He lived on a farm purchased from James Bette in 1662, on the side of Beverly toward Wenham.

His will, made December 8, 1705, and proved February 25, 1708/9, made very definite provision for the care of his wife Ruth. He then left legacies to William, Daniel and Paul, sons of his eldest and deceased son William, to his second son Edward, to his youngest son Ebenezer, to Hannah, only child of his deceased son George, to his eldest daughter Hannah, widow of Nathaniel Haywood, to his second daughter Abigail, wife of John Giles, to his daughter Mary, wife of Josiah Batchelder, and to his youngest daughter Ruth, wife of Jonathan Batchelder. His wife and his sons Edward and Ebenezer were named executors, and his friends and cousins Cornet Lot Conant and Nathaniel Rayment overseers.*

XV SCROGGS, OF LONDON, ENGLAND, AND SALEM

SCROGGS

The name Scroggs or Scruggs, fortunately for the cause of euphony, is very uncommon. It is probably of Scotch origin, the names of Robert and Simon de Scrogges and Adam and William del Scrogges appearing in thirteenth-century records of that country, while in the fifteenth century David del Scrogges was a provost of the town of Aberdeen.

With the exception of an isolated family in Preston-in-Holderness, co. York, most of the name in England can be traced with more or less certainty to Thomas Skeyff alias Scrogs, who by his marriage with Agnes Harleston, an heiress, became possessed of the manor of Patmore Hall, Albury, co. Herts, and other extensive property, about the year 1519.* In the inquest postmortem taken on his death in 1538 his son Francis Scroggs, aged eighteen and more, is found to be his heir, and two sons by a second marriage, Alexander and Richard Scroggs of Renhold, co. Bedford, have been identified. It is possible, though unproven, that other sons survived and that one of them founded the family of London merchants, members of the Butchers Company, to which Mr. Thomas Scruggs, emigrant to Salem and follower of Anne Hutchinson, belonged.

- Scroggs. Purely for convenience in tabulation, a common origin is ascribed to four persons of the name who were married in London between 1572 and 1580.
  - Mary, m. William Wyllye July 9, 1572, at Christ Church, Newgate Street, London.
  - JOHN. 2. ii.
  - 3. iii.
    - AGNES, m. David Thomas April 3, 1580, at St. Helen's Bishopsgate, London, and had a son Francis, bapt. June 19, 1580, in the same parish.
- JOHN Scroggs, of the parish of Christ Church, Newgate Street, London, was born about 1546 and died before April 4, 1597, when administration was granted on his estate. †

He was presented as an apprentice by Richard Bramleye of the Butchers Company, in 1558 or 1559, and was admitted to the company by service in 1566 or 1567. He married at Christ Church October 13, 1572, Mary Stocklye who survived him and was his administratrix. Her brother Fulke Stocklye, citizen and blacksmith of London, left by will in 1598 £8 apiece to "John, Raphe and Samuel Scrogges, sons of my late brother-in-law John Scrogges, citizen and butcher, of London, and to their sister Marie Scrogges."*

Children:—

Francis, bapt. Dec. 20, 1573, at Christ Church. i.

MARY; Mary Scroggs, a child, d. of the plague and was buried at Christ Church July 25, 1583.

John; as son of John Scroggs, late citizen and butcher of London, deceased, he was presented as an apprentice by John Awsten of the Butchers Company for a term of seven years from St. Mark's day, 1598; probably the John Scrogges, late of St. Sepulchre's parish, London, on whose estate administration was granted to the widow, Jane Scrogges, in 1612 or 1613.†

RALPH; as son of John Scroggs, late citizen and butcher of London, deceased, he was presented as an apprentice by George Hawton of the Butchers Company for a term of eight years from St. Bartholomew's day, 1599.

SAMUEL; as son of John Scrogges, butcher, late of London, deceased, he was presented as an apprentice by Francis Green of the Butchers Company for a term of eight years from July 1, 1600.

MARY; a legatee of her uncle Fulke Stocklye in 1598.

WILLIAM SCROGGS, butcher, of St. Sepulchre's parish, London, was born about 1557, and died between February, 1606, and July 13, 1609, the dates of his will and the proving thereof. He married, first, Rachel Prentice at Christ Church, Newgate Street, August 3, 1579, and, second, Margaret —, probably a widow, who survived him and died between April 19 and September 28, 1633, the dates of the making and proving of her will.

He was apprenticed to Andrew Woodcock, a member of the Butchers Company of London, in 1569 or 1570, and received his freedom by service in 1577 or 1578. He began paying "quarterage" and "barge-money" as a yeoman of the company at once, and continued to do so until 1605 when he was advanced in rank to liveryman. Among the apprentices whom he presented were Henry Budworth (1593-1594), Thomas, son of Alexander Weston of Northampton (1595-1596), William Holland (1598-1599), Peter, son of Peter Baldam of Titchfield, co. Hants. (1602-1603), Thomas, son of Richard Knight of Belbroughton, co. Worcester (1603-1604), and Humphrey, son of Richard Thomas of Bishops Castle, co. Salop (1608-1609). He paid numerous fines for absence and lateness at the company's meetings, and on two occasions he was fined for selling mutton for lamb and for giving false weight.

His will left to his wife Margaret the leases which were hers when he married her and £40, to his son William the lease of the house in which he dwelt subject to annual payments of £5 apiece to his son Adam and daughter Rachel, and cash legacies to his son Thomas, daughter Margaret and maidservant Jane. Mr. Barnaby Newman was named executor, but he refused the trust and William Scroggs, the testator's son, was appointed administrator cum testamento annexo.*

The will of Margaret Scrugges of St. Sepulchre's without Newgate, widow, "well stricken in years and at this present verie sicke and weake," was dated April 19, 1633. She directed that she be buried in St. Sepulchre's church as near to her late husband William Scrugges as might be. She gave to her grandson William Scrugges, son of her son-in-law (stepson) William Scrugges, a small wine cup, to her cousin Martha Walker of Westminster her best kettle, and small legacies to her goddaughter Margaret Harford, her loving friend Anne Percivall and her (Anne's) daughter Margaret Percivall. For the Livery Company of Butchers she provided a supper if they should accompany her body to the earth on the day of her funeral, and for her neighbors, being butchers' wives near Smithfield Bars, attending her funeral, a supper. The residue went to her daughter Jane Scrugges, spinster, who was to be sole executrix. The overseers were her son (stepson) William Scrugges, and her friend Thomas Jonson, butcher. The will was proved September 28, 1633.†

Possibly Jane Scroggs, not mentioned in her father's will, may have been omitted because of the prospective legacy from her mother, whose only child she seems to have been. On the other hand "daughter Margaret" and "maid-servant Jane" received identical legacies in the will of William Scroggs, which may indicate error on the part of the writer or reader thereof.

Middlesex, widow, making her will Jan. 3, 1660/1, left her property to her three daughters Jane, Hannah and Elizabeth Gaymes and made her friend Mr. Richard Lowe executor; her messuage at West Smithfield Bars was occupied by Thomas Taylor, butcher.+

WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> Scroggs (William<sup>1</sup>), butcher, of St. Sepulchre's parish, London, was born about 1582. He was twice married, the name of his first wife not being known, and the second, whom he married May 21, 1621, at St. Helen's, Bishopgate, being Elizabeth Mansfield of St. Sepulchre's parish, widow.

He received the freedom of the Butchers Company by patrimony in 1603 or 1604, on payment of 3s. 6d. and a gilt spoon. He passed through the various ranks of the company from yeoman to assistant, and was at one time its master, his name appearing on a list of former masters dated June 29, 1641. On June 30, 1625, "Thomas Randes apprentice of William Dente was made free by William Scrugges" on payment of 3s. 6d. and a silver spoon. His last payment of dues to the company was made in 1643.

There is a strong circumstantial evidence that William Scroggs, the successful London merchant, retired with a sufficient fortune and died as William Scroggs of Rainham, co. Essex, gentleman, who made his will in 1647, and the father of Sir William Scroggs, the Lord Chief Justice, 1678-1681. (a) The London butcher had sisters Margaret and Jane; the Rainham gentleman mentioned sisters Margaret and Jane in his will. (b) The London butcher freed an apprentice named Thomas Rands in 1625; the Rainham gentleman left a legacy to "Thomas Rands, butcher at Smithfield Bars, London, . . . for ending a suit occasioned by my business." (c) The London butcher's second wife was a widow, named Elizabeth, and they lived in St. Sepulchre's parish; the Rainham gentleman's wife was named Elizabeth, "being formerly a widow," and by her will it appears that she held leases at West Smithfield Bars in St. Sepulchre's parish. On the other hand,

J. Renton Dunlop, F.S.A., in his pedigree of the Scroggs family, states that William Scroggs of Rainham was a son of William Scroggs, mercer and innholder of Wood Street, London, who was a younger son of Francis Scroggs, Esq., of Patmore Hall. Mr. Dunlop gives no evidence in support of this conclusion except the Lord Chief Justice's hazy conjecture that he was a great-grandson of Francis Scroggs through that gentleman's son Thomas, who as a matter of fact died s.p. That the Lord Chief Justice, who did not know his grandfather's name, was in fact the son of a butcher, there is contemporary evidence. Sir William Dugdale, who was in the College of Arms when Sir William was knighted, stated that he was "the son of a one-eyed butcher near Smithfield Bars" and the Dictionary of National Biography says that "The squibs with which he was assailed in after life constantly alluded to his father's business as that of a butcher."

William Scroggs, the elder, of Rainham, co. Essex, gentleman, died between September 9, 1647, and January 5, 1647/8, the dates of the making and proving of his will. He left £100 to his grandchildren, Anne and Elizabeth, daughters of his son William, to his daughter-in-law, Anne Scroggs, wife of his son William, "my old gray mare, entreating her not to sell it or do away with it," small legacies to his sisters Margaret Raymond and Jane Games, and he forgave Thomas Rands, butcher at Smithfield Bars, money in his hands "in satisfaction of £5 he paid for ending a suit occasioned by my business." The residue was to go to his wife Elizabeth, "formerly a widow," and his son William.*

The widow returned to London and died between August 13 and November 8, 1651, the dates of the making and proving of her will. The only legatees were her daughter-in-law Anne Scroggs and her two grandchildren, Anne and Elizabeth Scroggs.†

Child, by first wife: -

No record of his apprenticeship appears in the books of the Butchers Company in London, but sometime before 1619/20, when the record of the baptism of his children begins in the parish church, he settled in Great Yarmouth, co. Norfolk, and practiced the family trade. His name appears in a subsidy of 1629 as the owner of land in the second north ward of the town.* The corporation records contain no mention of him until 1631 when Thomas Scrugges and five others were presented for keeping "certain houses within this town for slaying beasts called slaughter houses to the grave annoyance of their neighbors," and on the same day he and seventeen others were presented "being inhabitants of the said town of Great Yarmouth aforesaid and occupying (trading) as burgesses of the said town whereas in truth they are not burgesses." Similar records are found until the Monday after St. Barnabas 9 Charles I (June, 1634). In February, 1634 (5) Scruggs and his wife were cited to appear before the Archdeaconry Court of Norwich (probably for failure to attend church). They did not appear, and at the following session Mrs. Scruggs was fined 7s. 8d. and costs. In the margin of the record are the words "att New England."+

The emigration of Thomas Scruggs and his wife undoubtedly had a religious causation. On his arrival at Salem, in the Bay Colony, he immediately became prominent in the church-state. He was sworn a freeman on September 2, 1635, was a deputy to the General Courts of March 3, 1635/6, September 8, 1636, and December 7, 1636, a commissioner of the Salem Court in 1636 and 1637 and a selectman of the town in the same years. In 1637, however, he became deeply involved in religious controversy as a partisan of Mrs. Hutchinson, and upon her banishment he and six other Salem men were disarmed as a danger to the community. Except for services as trial juror in 1645 and grand juror in 1647 his public career was ended.

Scruggs' first land grant of 300 acres was returned by him to the town in 1636 and Salem tradition states that it was the projected site of the college which was later established at Cambridge. In its stead he received a farm of 200 acres in what later became Beverly, originally granted to Capt. William Trask, one of the "old planters."

Thomas Scruggs died in 1654 and his widow Margery was appointed administratrix 29:4:1654. The inventory, amounting to £244:10:2, included "a silver boule." Mrs. Scruggs conveyed the estate to her son-in-law John Rayment in consideration of £5 to be paid at once, £5 to be at her disposal on her death, the use of the household goods and an annual income of £20 to be paid quarterly during her lifetime.

Mrs. Scruggs died January 26, 1662/3.
